Minden may face board hearing on road closure

Anson, Hindon and Minden council may still face an Ontario Municipal Board hearing on a by-law to close a portion of the road through Hart Lodge to certain vehicular traffic.

At its regular meeting last Thursday night, council received two letters regarding the road closure, one in favour and one against.

Fred Funston of Scarborough who owns a cottage on Twelve Mile Lake, protested council's move to close the old roadway. In August, 1979, Funston was instrumental in forcing council to rescind an earlier by-law to close the road, which had been passed illegally.

Now council is trying to pass the same by-law, this time in the manner prescribed by the Municipal Act. Council has suggested that the old road through the Hart Lodge property be closed to vehicular traffic, except those owned by six cottagers who reportedly could not use the new road because of a large hill which makes travel dangerous and nearly impossible.

At an earlier meeting, council had agreed that Murray Skinkle, one of the six cottagers, could act as a liaison person with the other cottagers and might arrive at a consensus in order to pass the by-law.

Funston wrote to council stating the cottagers on the west side of Twelve Mile Lake were not in agreement with the road closing, even after being contacted by Skinkle.

"This is to advise you that those residents of the west side of Twelve Mile Lake located in the general area of my property have never conceded that the closing was either necessary or advisable," Funston wrote.

However, Funston pointed out that November was an inconvenient time to contact many of the cottagers who would like to voice their

could be hazard

MTC tells Minden

The installation of lights on the existing hydro poles along Highway 121 east of Minden may be hazardous to pedestrians and traffic according to the Ministry of Transportation and Communications (MTC) district engineer.

In a letter to Anson, Hindon and Minden council, read at their regular meeting last Thursday, D.A.O. White said the lighting suggested by the township along a section of Highway 121 near the intersection of Highway 35 was below the MTC's standards. "This proposal was examined by our electrical design office who advised that both the illuminance and uniformity were below our standards," White wrote.

Council's suggestion of installing five 250 watt mercury vapour lamps from 20 foot brackets attached to the hydro poles did not comply with the ministry's standards because the poles are too far from the pavement and are irregularly spaced; the suggested luminaire mounting is too low as well as the illuminance level; and the installations would be aesthetically unattractive, according to White.

"The reason this ministry considers all illumination of a provincial highway should comply with minimum standards is that the existence of lighting would give turning traffic, and especially pedestrians, a false sense of security if the installation was

Board of Ed. agrees in principle to school bus patroller concept

The Haliburton County Board of Education has agreed in principle to student patrollers on school buses.

At a meeting last Tuesday, the board voted to form a committee that will investigate the patrol concept and recommend how it could be implemented in the local system.

The decision came only after a lengthy discussion, however, in which some board members and officials expressed concern about legal and other complications.

The potential benefits of patrols had been brought to the attention of the board's transportation committee by Minden OPP. At a recent meeting, police outlined ways in which student patrollers could help reduce the dangers of road crossings and unruly students.

Under the scheme, two youngsters on each bus act as patrollers. One rides at the front and, with the aid of signals from the driver, ensures that students cross highways only when traffic has stopped in both directions. A second student rides at the rear of the bus and helps monitor discipline by telling the driver about students who are being unruly. The scheme has been operating successfully in many parts of the province, the transportation committee was told.

At Tuesday's meeting, committee chairman Leroy Eager said the idea was worth pursuing.

"I think we should consider the patrols," he said. "I don't think we're going to solve the problem by postponing it." He said patrols could help "improve our discipline" on buses.

(One of the OPP's main concerns had been that students who act up on buses can distract a driver and endanger the lives of other students).

Trustee Earl Cooper pointed to the fact that many students think it is safe to cross a road once a bus has stopped and its lights are flashing. They often don't look to see if oncoming cars have stopped he said, adding that patrols could make "a great difference".

"They could be a very good thing," he said. "There's good citizenship involved there. I think we should do what we can to implement it."

But he also wondered what the board's legal position would be if someone complained about students assuming responsibility for other students.

Trustee Nancy Stinson said she and seen student bus patrols at work in Victoria County, and was impressed. "I think bus patrols are a fantastic idea," she said.

But board chairman Len Salvatori saw practical complications.

"The mechanics of it are terrible," he said, indicating that to be effective the patrollers would have to board the buses early and ride the whole route.

Director of Education J. Douglas Hodgson stressed that the matter of discipline could be the thorniest problem associated with the patrol scheme.

The board would have to "very clearly lay out the authority and responsibility (a patroller would have) in terms of discipline," Hodgson said. He suggested that a committee of board members, principals and bus operators should be formed to examine the patrol concept.

"There's a whole vast number of ideas that would have to be discussed and arrived at so that we would know what authority our patrollers would have," Hodgson said. Details would have to be worked out with drivers, and since drivers change frequently, "There would have to be a constant, in service program."

Hodgson also cautioned that patrols might "lead to a great deal of difficulties with citizens."

"There are many people who don't want teachers and bus drivers to discipline kids," he said.

Trustee Cheryl Murdoch agreed with Hodgson's points, saying patrols are a good idea but that rules and limits "would have to be set down in black and white".

Hodgson's main concern was that the public might think the board was considering patrols because the system of busing was unsafe or "out of control".

He stressed that the present system is a good one.

"We do have, I think, a good bus system, despite what some people say. It is not perfect, but our statistics would prove that it is almost perfect."

In the more than 12 years that the present board has existed, there have been no injuries on school buses, he said.

"I don't want mass hysteria in Haliburton County," he said. "I don't want people refusing to let their children ride the buses."

In the end the board agreed

Alcohol, drug use contributed to accident LLBO procedures weak Coroner's jury discovers

A coroner's jury at an inquest into the death of an 18 year old Irondale youth made eight recommendations it hopes will reduce the chances of a similar death occurring in the future.

The three men and two women on the jury deliberated for almost four hours at the close of a day and a half of testimony before returning with their findings and recommendations.

The jury found that Guy Sanford Mintz died September 7 of extensive injuries consistent with being struck by a motor vehicle.

Mintz had been attending a stag party in honour of Keith Hunter at the Gooderham fire hall before the mishap occurred. He was lying on the centre line of Highway 503 in the village of Gooderham at approximately 5:35 a.m. when he was struck and killed by a car driven by Edward George Bacon.

Testimony at the inquest indicated that it was dark and foggy at the time of the accident, and that Mintz had high levels of alcohol and THC, the active ingredient in hashish, in his body at the time of his death.

Witnesses who testified included organizers of the stag party, friends who had been with Mintz on the night in question, the driver of the car, police, Liquor Control Board and Liquor Licensing Board officials, a forensic scientist, a pathologist, the local coroner and Gooderham residents who were involved in the aftermath of the accident.

Throughout the inquest, crown attorney Dick Sheehy, and lawyers representing a number of individuals and groups, sought to establish the circumstances surrounding the youth's death and the summed liquor and beer at the stag, often with the approval of parents or relatives who were also in attendance.

Testimony also revealed that Mintz and other youths stepped outside the fire hall to smoke hashish on at least two occasions during the party.

Linda McCauley, a toxicologist from the Forensic Sciences laboratory in Toronto testified that blood and urine samples from the dead youth indicated that he had 122 mg. percent alcohol in his bloodstream at the time of his death and .5 nanograms per ml. of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC). Urine tests indicated 204 mg. percent alcohol, she said, and 48.5 nanograms per ml. of THC. The concentrations showed that the youth would have been significantly impaired, testimony revealed, since alcohol and THC are depressants and interact with each other.

At the time of his death, Mintz had the equivalent of 4.2 bottles of beer or 6.4 ounces of liquor in his system. McCauley estimated that two hours before the accident, Mintz would have had the equivalent of 5.4 bottles of beer and 8.2 ounces of liquor in his system.

The level of THC found in the youth's blood was the highest she has found since the testing technique became available two years ago, McCauley told the inquest.

Mintz had been drinking

Dysart seeks elevator grant

Disabled persons in Dysart et al may soon find it easier to get in and out of some municipal buildings. Clerk Wayne Wood confirmed

Monday that the municipality has applied for provincial grants that could meet up to 100 percent of the cost of installing an elevator at the Dysart arena and ramps at the municipal building and the West Guilford Community Centre.

The grants are being made available to municipalities as part of a provincial government effort to make 1981 the year of disabled persons.

Without the grants, Wood said, the municipality could not justify the expense of an elevator for the arena. With provincial support, however, an elevator can be built either inside the existing stairwell to the second floor or attached to the exterior of the building.

The arena auditorium is used as a meeting place for the Haliburton senior citizens club, now more than 300 strong, but at present, wheel chairs can only be taken up the stairs with great difficulty and some danger.

Wood said the request for the grant was made through Ministry of Culture and Recreation representative for the area, Brenda Couch.

Council hopes the request will be among the first received, increasing the municipality's chances of obtaining the grant sometime in the new year.

The Guild of Fine Arts hosted a Christmas decoration workshop under the instruction of Pat Campbell of Minden, last Wednesday. The Ralls' End Gallery was crowded as ladies and gentlemen from around the county learned how to make beautiful natural arrangements.

County has 315 alcoholics Detoxification facilities needed, planning council told

by Sue Cooper

There are 315 reported alcoholics in Haliburton county according to a recent task force report prepared by the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge, and Peterborough and Northumberland county health units.

The study recorded all statistics regarding the number of alcoholics who had sought various medical treatment in the recent future.

At a seminar on alcoholism sponsored by the Haliburton county social planning council, Bill Becks, chairman of the task force, told the group it was very difficult to conduct the survey since alcoholism "is a hidden problem".

To gather the statistics, the task force used the worldwide definition of an alcoholic: someone whose drinking problem is so great it affects his work, family or social relations.

In the study area including Peterborough, Northumberland, Victoria and Haliburton, a total of 6,200 alcoholics sought medical help. That total represents 37.4 alcoholics per 1,000 adults over the age of 15, Becks said.

In Victoria county 1,280 alcoholics were recorded, in Northumberland, 1,800, and in Peterborough county 2,800 alcoholics were noted.

The speech to the group laid the ground work for enacting five recommendations made by the task force. It recommended that to fight the problem of alcoholism help should be sought through the area planning councils who then could be instrumental in establishing alcoholic help services.

The second recommendation made by the task force was that steps should be taken to establish minimum detoxification services in as many areas as possible.

According to Becks this recommendation created the largest uproar from the medical profession. Becks said he had assured them the report had not meant beds should be set aside permanently for detox but should be available if an alcoholic is seeking help.

"They should have the assurance that they can get help in a hospital," Becks explained. He noted many alcoholics "dry-out" at home but medical facilities should be available if needed.

Another recommendation made by the task force was the suggestion area health agencies should donate part of their staffs' time to working on a co-operative referral services program.

Unless unforeseen money is forthcoming from the government, the task force's report will rely heavily on volunteer operations, Becks said.

The referral services would be established to help alcoholics after they had dried out and tried to cope with life again.

"Don't just dry them out and kick them out," Becks said. He noted that the services an alcoholic receives after drying out may determine how successful he is at not drinking again.

Minden and Haliburton areas are far from the centres in Peterborough so services should be established in this area, Becks said.

"Something has to be done in Minden and Haliburton... it's too far away," Becks noted.

The task force also recommended that the health council should press the Ministry of Health to finance incentives for an out-patient program for people with before he arrived at the stag, testimony indicated, and he continued to drink throughout the night. Sometime after 3 a.m. Jeffrey Hunter, 16, was loaned a truck by one of the stag organizers to drive a Wayne Graham home. Hunter testified that Mintz and Michael Hunter also decided to go along for the ride. After Graham was dropped off, the three youths headed back to the stag.

Jeffrey Hunter told the inquest that at the turn off Highway 507 onto the dirt road leading to the fire hall, Mintz and Michael Hunter decided to get out and head for the village, where Mintz apparently intended to place a phone call to his mother. Michael Hunter testified that he had also been drinking and smoking hashish that evening.

Bacon said he stopped his car and went back with the idea of removing the bag from the roadway, and at that moment discovered that the object was a body.

Bacon said he detected some twitching of the body at that time, but testimony from Dr. William Dawkins of Peterborough, the pathologist who carried out the post mortem indicated that Mintz suffered massive head injuries and was, in all probability, clinically dead when Bacon reached him.

Bacon then walked to the village and aroused Marjorie and William Hunter, who called an ambulance and returned to the scene with Bacon. Thinking the youth might still be alive they covered up the body with a blanket. When ambulance attendants arrived, coroner Dr. H. E. Good was called. He pronounced Mintz dead at the scene.

that a carbon copy be retained by the applicant.

Second recommendation was that all changes in applications are to be initiated by the applicant and the LCBO clerk who accepts the application.

Thirdly, it recommended that special occasion permit applications must be prepared and forwarded to the LLBO head office allowing ample time for a special occasion permit to be received by all concerned. If postal service is too slow, a courier service is available in all parts of Ontario to accelerate delivery, the jury noted.

Fourth recommendation was that all LLBO applications have two places for signatures, one for signing the application itself, and one for signing that the rules and regulations governing the application are in the applicant's possession and are to be understood.

"We do not believe all LCBO employees are too busy to make sure (an) applicant is fully versed in the simple rules and regulations on the reverse side of the application," the jury noted in its recommendations. And it said all LCBO clerks receiving applications should be required to sign the application as well.

Fifth recommendation was that all persons signing an application should be prepared to be in attendance during the course of the entire occasion.

Sixth recommendation was that all police departments make at least one appearance at all functions.

Seventh recommendation was that officials of all small villages and districts should obtain the services of the OPP special department that has a comprehensive program for drug and alcohol abuse and that LLBO inspectors when inspecting buildings, should advise proper authorities of this educational service.

Finally, the jury recommended that a poster the size of a permit should go with each application stating that no minors are to be served and should be posted in plain view.

The recommendations will be circulated to a number of government departments, and some of them may be acted upon in the near future.

Cottagers protest closure of road disapproval personally.

"The present council is a 'lame duck' council with a very limited term to run," Funston said. "This matter should not be acted upon by the present council but should be referred to the new council, at which time proper representation can be made by those affected by the proposed action of the current council."

The cottagers who will not be able to use the old road if it is closed, are intent on making a submission to county council to have the by-law stopped, Funston said.

Ministry of Transportation and Communications (MTC) ordered the closure of the one-lane dam crossing leading onto highway 35. At that time council entered into an agreement with the owners of Hart Lodge to construct a new road at the rear of the lodge property and close the old road through the front of the lodge property where many pedestrians were travelling.

improperly designed," White told the council.

The glare which would be created by the irregular lighting could create serious traffic hazards, White said.

"In other words, no illumination could be less hazardous than poor illumination," White added.

In an earlier report to

After Funston's letter was read, council also heard a letter from the owners of Hart Lodge who are in favour of the new closing arrangement if only the six cottage owners are allowed to use the entrance.

Hunter said he got Mintz up and the two again headed north toward the village. Mintz then laid down on a traffic island that marks a right turn off of Highway 503 onto 507 with his feet pointed out into the roadway, Hunter said. He tried to get Mintz up, he said, but Mintz told him to go home. Hunter then began walking west along the north side of 503, believing that Mintz would follow. He laid down to wait, the inquest was told, and fell asleep, waking up only after the mishap had occurred.

Edward George Bacon, of Gooderham, driver of the car, said he was taking a load of garbage to the municipal council, White had specified sectional steel poles along the highway since they were safer than wood poles when hit by a vehicle.

"Wood poles located only 10 feet from edge of pavement present a far greater hazard to any out-of-control vehicle than a steel (hollow) pole that bends and collapses when struck by a vehicle," White explained.

Since council is interested in providing lighting along the route, White said he would have the design office review the previous design to cut any unnecessary costs.

White said he would be in touch with council once a new reply was received from the design office.

Stanhope's citizen of the year

Cited for contribution to community recreation

Dave McKinlay was given the top honour awarded to a resident of Stanhope township last Saturday evening.

At the annual Stanhope Christmas party for staff and committee members, McKinlay was named Citizen of the Year.

Cited for his contributions to recreation in the township, McKinlay, a teacher at Archie Stouffer Public School in Minden, said he was surprised at the award.

"I didn't think I had done that many things," he said in an interview Monday.

McKinlay noted that he had been involved with the hiring of summer students and overseeing the swimming program at Hall's Lake, as well as afternoon tennis lessons in August.

Throughout the last year, McKinlay was also chairman of the recreation committee and a member of the firefighters' hall committee.

Although McKinlay said it is often the chairman who gets a pat on the back, "a committee makes you look good," he said.

McKinlay said he felt the year would not have been as successful without the help of a competent recreation committee. He also singled out councillor Elvin Johnson saying he had been a great help on parks and the swimming area improvement.

McKinlay said the co-operation of all the residents working in the same direction makes it easy for the township to progress.

"I think that's what it is all about," he said.

McKinlay says he feels that in the future, recreation will play a bigger part in life since people will probably have more leisure time to enjoy area facilities.

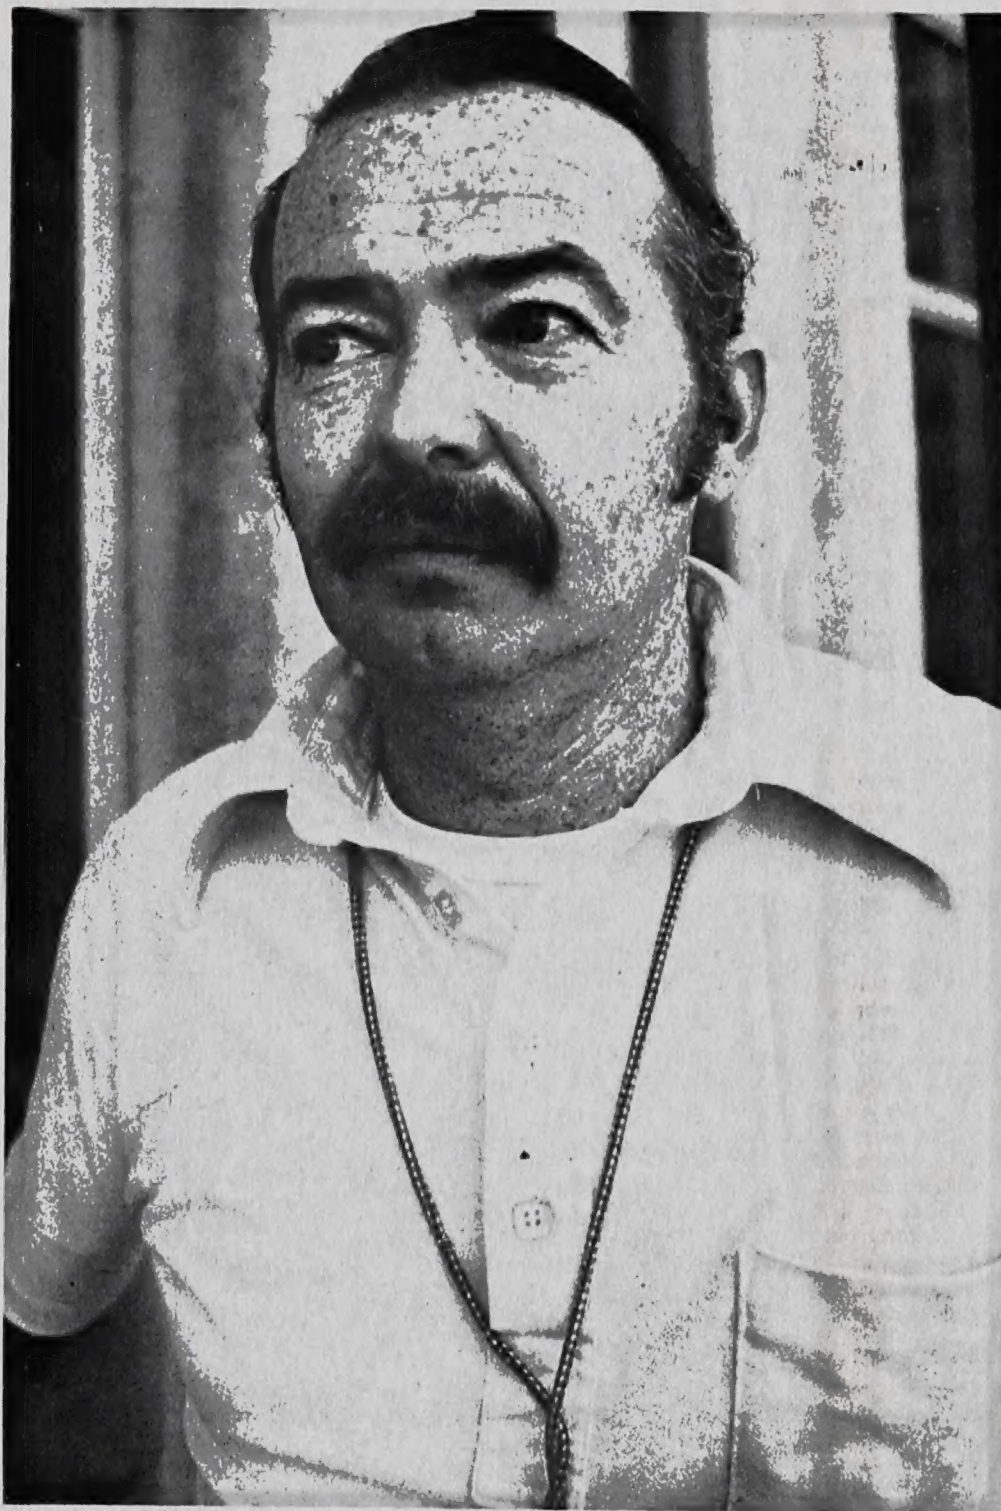

That may be part of the reason that even after receiving the top award in the township, McKinlay is not going to stop working for better recreation in Stanhope.

In the near future, he hopes the committee can obtain permission from private landowners to establish cross country ski trails in the township. He noted that the project would be labour intensive and would probably cost very little. The township has a lot of volunteer help, McKinlay added.

McKinlay said he was honoured to receive the award, which last year went to Alex Stevenson.

"I think I'm in pretty good company," he said.

McKinlay says he will put his name forward for the recreation committee again next year.

Two escape serious injury as cars collide on 35

Two men escaped serious injury last Tuesday when their cars collided on Highway 35 south of Minden.

Police say William T. Murdock, 47, of Kingston, was northbound and Charles Robinson, 51, of RR1, Haliburton, was southbound when Robinson lost control in slush and collided with Murdock's vehicle.

Murdock suffered minimal injuries while Robinson's injuries were described as minor.

Murdock's vehicle sustained an estimated $3000 damage. There was no estimate of damage to Robinson's vehicle.

A two-car crash on the Barry line resulted in an estimated $3000 damage Saturday afternoon.

Timothy Barry, 20, of RR1, Haliburton, was eastbound and Donna Jennison, 22, of Weston was westbound when their vehicles collided on a downgrade and curve.

Damage to Barry's car was estimated at $1000 while damage to Jennison's car was estimated at $2000.

A single vehicle accident on Kawagama Lake Road resulted in an estimated $4000 damage Sunday evening.

Robert Boucher, 26, of Oshawa was southbound down a hill when the trailer he was towing jack-knifed and his van entered the west ditch, striking some trees.

Damage was estimated at $1000 last Wednesday when a car left Bat Lake Road.

Douglas Anderson, 17, of RR1, Minden, was southbound.

Director asks ministry for ruling on board

The director of education for the Haliburton County Board will ask the Ministry of Education for written clarification of regulations outlining the number of members who can sit on the local board.

J. Douglas Hodgson said Monday that he will seek a ruling on whether or not a separate school elector's representative on the board would sit in addition to the 14 members the Education Act calls for when the population of the area served by a board is less than 50,000.

The act indicates that separate school electors in the Bicroft zone are entitled to have a member on the board to deal with secondary education matters. But it does not appear to spell out how one of the existing seats could be redistributed to accommodate a representative from Bicroft.

Haliburton County council has said it will consider the composition of the board before September, 1982. The decision came in reply to pressure from separate school electors in Bicroft, whose children attend separate school in Hastings County and public secondary school at North Hastings high school in Bancroft.

The ministry's interpretation of the act could be forwarded to the local director within a month.

Public invited to comment on plans, programs MNR releases part of study

The Minden district of the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) made public the first phase of an overall land use strategy at an open house on Saturday.

The background study, which was presented at the Minden municipal building, is part of a three phase effort that will include alternative strategies and a draft plan to outline the needs of the district.

The final plan will suggest resource-related policies the MNR might undertake to guide the municipal planning process; outline the ministry's management of crown land and recommend how resource development might be encouraged on private land.

The plan includes land and water uses, both crown and patented, forestry, fisheries, wildlife, minerals, recreation and services such as roads, rail lines and air fields.

The forest resources in the district are of great importance as a renewable resource and economy-based industry, the background study notes.

In the district approximately 590,000 acres are utilized in the forest industry. Of this total, two-thirds are patented land while the other third is crown land.

Sixty percent of this forest land is made up of tolerant hardwoods, maple, beech and basswood, while 20 percent is intolerant hardwoods such as poplar, white birch and soft maple.

At the moment the ministry has found the tolerant species are being cut to their potential while the market is very limited for intolerant trees.

In the future, the study notes, emphasis might be placed on discovering markets for the intolerant species to improve the forests.

"In Minden district, we could increase the annual area cut on crown land on a sustained yield basis, if we were able to utilize the intolerant hardwoods," the background survey states.

By the year 2020 the Minden district will probably produce an annual continuous supply of 11.7 million cubic feet of industrial fibre.

Although this estimate is based upon provincial and regional studies, the MNR notes that it may change based on local conditions.

The implications facing the forest industry, based on the study are: forest operations on private land will become increasingly important if the demand for wood is to be met; crown as well as patented lands must be managed to provide quality sawlogs in order to contribute to the local economy; markets for small-diameter, low-grade material should be encouraged.

Fisheries management is also an important aspect of the study with 95,000 acres of surface water in the district. According to the MNR the present potential production of sport fish in the area is approximately 260,000 pounds per year.

It is expected that fishing will provide 1.56 million recreational days by the year 1999 in the Minden district.

In order to meet the increased recreational demand the water quality must be maintained or improved; sport fish production must be increased; spawning beds and nursery areas must be protected and restored; a continued effort to reduce the impact which perch and bass have on a brook and a rainbow trout fishery must be made; water level must be managed; present angling efforts will have to be re-directed to cool and warm water species while angler success rate may decline.

The wildlife resource also provides a great amount of recreation in the district as well as economic benefits.

Hunting such species as deer, moose, black bear, ruffed grouse and waterfowl create most of the demand.

This demand is expected to increase at the same rate as population growth, according to the survey.

In the year 2000, 8,000 hunters will have the opportunity to hunt in the Minden district.

Also, the MNR is expecting a demand for wildlife viewing opportunities in the future.

Basically, the background study suggests that current wildlife management programs be maintained and improved to keep up with the increased demand.

Since demand is also expected to increase for mineral resources, the ministry is suggesting that municipalities be encouraged to allow exploration and extraction and to discourage residential development until an area's mineral potential is utilized.

With recreational demands increasing each year, the MNR suggests the Minden area should be providing opportunities for a wilderness class park, a natural environment park in the reserve in Cavendish township, a recreation park, and should also designate significant natural and cultural areas.

It is the ministry's suggestion that the wider variety of recreational opportunities that could be provided would complement the local tourist industry.

With the ministry now heading into the second phase of the plan which is the alternative strategies, the public is invited to make their interests and ideas known to the local district office.

MTC agrees to subsidize soil tests

Cottagers on Shuyler's Island in Horseshoe Lake will receive partial subsidy for soil tests to be conducted on the causeway to the island.

The cottagers are concerned that a lack of water flow through the back channel may be causing the water to stagnate. They want larger culverts installed to increase the flow. However, a recent consultant's report failed to discover whether larger culverts would increase the flow, so more studies are required.

Although the council of Anson, Hinton and Minden had received previous refusals for funding from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications regarding the causeway problem, 65 percent subsidy may now be available for the soil tests.

In a letter to council, read at the regular meeting last Thursday, Wes Ham, MTC municipal engineer, said the ministry would consider funding the soils investigations although an estimate of the work prior to commencement would be needed to justify the actual amount.

However, council did not feel that the ministry would necessarily fund the reconstruction of the causeway if the culverts needed to be changed.

Ham also made no commitment that the MTC would completely subsidize the entire operation.

"If and when the municipality may decide to install a new culvert(s), there is no commitment on this ministry at this time to allow subsidy," Ham wrote. The matter would have to be decided upon at a later date.

The first snowmobile accident of the season occurred Saturday when two machines collided in Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Reserve.

Peter Cockburn, 24, of Scarborough and Richard Samelko, 24, also of Scarborough were westbound and east-bound respectively on the same trail when they collided on the crest of a hill.

Damage to Cockburn's 1981 machine was estimated at $2000 while damage to Samelko's 1980 machine was estimated at $2,200.

A matter of attitude

It was purely coincidental that an inquest into the death of an Irondale youth was in its second day last Thursday when the results of a task force report on alcoholism were made public at a meeting of the Haliburton County Social Planning Council. But the relationship between the two events is hard to ignore.

The report, a joint effort of the Haliburton Kawartha Pine Ridge, and Peterborough/Northumberland Health Units found that some 315 people in Haliburton County sought medical help for alcohol-related problems in the recent past. The number reflects only those whose problem is serious enough to have led to medical involvement. There are no doubt hundreds of other people in the county with drinking problems that have not progressed so far.

The inquest also centred on the consequences of alcohol and drug abuse, and the ease with which minors can obtain and consume liquor and beer at some public functions.

Together, the study and testimony at the inquest indicate that the time is right to take a hard look at the kind of behaviour society has come to look upon as acceptable.

Many of those who attended a stag party at the Gooderham fire hall on the night of September 6 and 7 were minors. Along with their fathers, uncles, grandfathers, brothers and friends, they bought and drank beer and liquor as a matter of course. Testimony at the inquest revealed that to the participants, there was nothing unusual about the events that led to the death of Guy Sanford Mintz early on the morning of September 7. One youth told the coroner's jury that he and his friends had been getting drunk and smoking hashish on Saturday nights for years. There is, the jury was told, precious little else for young people to do in Gooderham on a Saturday night. And although the inquest dealt with the conditions that prevailed in that hamlet on that night, the problems that were revealed are by no means unique. Hamlets and villages tend to be close knit places. Rules and regulations are often bent or ignored at social functions. Most of the time, the consequences are minimal. But, as the inquest revealed, the potential for harm to the individuals involved, or to innocent members of the public, is ever-present when alcohol or drugs are abused.

In an attempt to prevent similar tragedies, the coroner's jury made eight recommendations, a number of which seem practical. Chief among them is that all applications for special occasion permits should be signed twice by the applicant, once to make the application official, and once to indicate that the applicant has read the rules and regulations that apply to the sale of alcohol at special events. Testimony at the hearing indicated that the individuals who organized the stag party did not have a copy of the permit at the time the event took place (the permit arrived in the mail two days later) and that they had not read the rules which spelled out minors were not to be served.

The jury also recommended that a poster should be given out with each permit and displayed at each event to indicate that minors can neither serve or be served liquor, beer or wine.

Police should also visit each special event at least once during the course of the night, the jury said, to ensure that rules are being followed. This suggestion is a good one, but might prove impractical in Haliburton County because of the distance involved and the small number of officer on duty during a given shift. In a larger area, where hundreds of special events may be going on at the same time, police could not possibly visit each one of them.

Yet if even some of the jury's recommendations are found to be workable, and are eventually implemented, the inquest will have served its purpose. But there is much that remains to be done. For it will take more than the enforcement of regulations to reduce alcohol abuse. It will require a change in attitude.

Most people would agree that there is nothing wrong with drinking a beer or two at a party, sipping a cocktail as part of an evening out or enjoying a glass of wine with dinner. But are these things essential for a good time? Advertising is geared to convince us that they are. It tries to persuade us - and not very subtly - that alcohol and the good life, alcohol and sexual fulfillment, alcohol and success, are inseparable. Or it shows us people who dislike their jobs "cutting out" for the good times that can only be had if they take a case of beer along.

Is it possible to canoe down a wilderness river without a case of beer? Not according to the brewery. Does the splash of a fishing fly on a still lake have to be accompanied by the "shuck" of a beer cap coming off a bottle? Apparently so.

To many people, these advertisements, and a host of others for alcoholic products, may seem innocent enough. But they are not. Because whether we recognize it or not, they give rise to and encourage attitudes that contribute to alcohol abuse.

The inquest and the task force report make it clear that alcohol abuse can lead not only to social problems, but to injury and death. They also prove that the problem runs deep and that only through a significant change in society's attitude to alcohol consumption can alcoholism be reduced.

Horseshoe rapids

As others see it

By Stan Darling, MP for Muskoka

There was a time when the statement "Pure as Rainwater" could be taken literally. That is no longer the case. Today many North Americans live in areas where the rain and snow are not so clean and pure. Considerable amounts of chemical acids are contained in the rain and snow that now fall over much of Canada and the United States and Europe. The acid in precipitation is usually not strong enough to be tasted because it is diluted. Nevertheless, there is growing evidence the seriousness of the problem is on the increase. New York Democrat, Richard Ottinger, recently announced an estimated 50,000 lakes in Canada are threatened with sterility by acid rain.

Part of the widespread seriousness of the problem can be attributed to the way the pollution control law works in the United States. Under the 1970 Clean Air Act, States were required to set emission standards for specific pollutants from new or modified plants. (Plants built before 1970 were exempted.); Air quality measurements are made at ground level where the air is breathed. As a result, in order to meet these ground level standards, many plants raised the height of their smoke stacks to disperse pollutants high in the air. The local pollution levels were reduced by raising the height of the smoke stacks, however, the problems were merely sent somewhere else.

In mid 1979, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency was responsible for imposing more stringent environmental standards. While the new standards require new or modified plants to eliminate 70 to 90 percent of their sulphur emissions, they will not affect existing plants for years to come.

November 17, 1980, was the release date for the second Canada-U.S. bilateral research consultation group report on acid rain. It was announced in that report that between 2,000 to 4,000 lakes in Ontario are now so acidic that they can no longer sustain desirable fish species. The report stated that trout and bass have disappeared from an estimated 2,000 to 4,000 lakes in Ontario; that one-half of the sulphur deposited in Eastern Ontario originates in the U.S. and that industrial emissions of acid-producing pollution could increase over the next 20 years unless control action is taken.

Undeniably, the acid rain problem is especially serious in Central and Eastern Canada where great amounts of emissions of sulphur dioxide are linked with the smelting industry and coal-fired power plants. Both Canada and the United States face a similar energy dilemma...how to increase the use of domestic coal in an environmentally sound manner. Both Canada and the United States are committed to achieving energy self-sufficiency. In order for both countries to accomplish this, they must reduce sharply their dependence on foreign oil.

On November 17, environment minister, John Roberts, announced that allowable sulphur emissions in Eastern Canada from the smelting industry last year were 2.5 million tons and that this year that amount has been reduced to 2.1 million tons. By 1983, that amount will be reduced further to 1.9 million tons.

Another large source of sulphur dioxide in the atmosphere is the coal-fired power industry. It is estimated that this industry is currently responsible for 500,000 tons in emissions in Eastern Canada. However, unless adequate environmental controls are developed soon, that 500,000 tons could increase dramatically by 40 percent!

There is no mistake, the acid rain problem has tended to divide those politicians who are especially concerned about the environment from those who represent coal-producing regions and others who are eager to use more coal in power stations in order to reduce reliance on imported oil. This was made abundantly clear in a letter which was recently signed by 90 of the 435 members of the U.S. House of Representatives and which pledged support to work with the Canadian government in providing solutions to this dangerously important environmental problem. Not one of the signers of that letter represents a coal-mining district. Nor are any of the signatures from West Virginia, Kentucky or Tennessee - regions of the United States which have consistently pressed for greater use of coal to relieve unemployment in mining towns.

In that address on November 17, environment minister, John Roberts, announced:

"My department will be meeting with provincial counterparts, especially in Central and Eastern Canada, who are either using coal or contemplating coal conversion to discuss ways whereby we can reduce the burden of acid-generating pollutants in the environment."

In addition, the minister pledged to continue efforts to achieve an air quality agreement with the United States.

More stringent control standards are desperately needed in the country. On the other hand, it is ridiculous for Canada and the United States to blame each other for the existence of the problem. The problem is an international one. Canada has Inco. The United States has the Ohio Valley. If a solution to the problem is to be found, both countries are going to have to work together. There is no mistake, international co-operation is the key to success!

Grey Cup week is over with all of its parties, hoopla, parades and speeches. This is the annual event we are told that brings Canadians closer together and if there was ever a time that we needed to be together it's now. While watching the game there was one aspect of this situation that really stood out and it came when Roger Whittaker backed by a choir sang all about Canada. This brought most of the large crowd of people from both the East and the West together for a standing ovation. This great show of enthusiasm for a united Canada was never more evident than at this game. The Grey Cup game itself is also distinctly Canadian in that it brings East and West together in an atmosphere of goodwill. There is something particularly warming about it when all of the provinces get together to show their loyalty as noticed by Premier Lougheed and Premier Davis sitting together at the game. It makes us all feel great to be a Canadian. From reports we have been hearing this could be the last year that the annual format will be used where the best from the East meets the best from the West. When Grey Cup time rolls around next November we could be seeing the two best teams in an overall standing which would mean that a team from the East would not necessarily meet a team from the West. When one thinks back over the past year when premiers from all of the provinces seemed to be at each other's throats, it's great to think that at least two or three days of the year when they gather for the Grey Cup it seems to unite us all. An annual event now in conjunction with the Grey Cup, are the Grey Cup parties, held in various homes throughout Haliburton County. These parties are one way to get people together for an afternoon of friendship and a real good chat before the game, while the game is in progress and following it. It's a time when people gather together who, during the week never seem to have time to speak to each other and this gives them the opportunity to talk and relax together. If the Grey Cup doesn't do anything else it does give us a glimmer of hope that we can work as a unit to keep this great country of ours united. Being a Hamilton Tiger Cat supporter I would be lying if I did not admit that I was a little bit disappointed with the outcome. I figured that we should have scored at least at touchdown. The 1979-80 season pointed out to us that the Western Conference is much stronger than the Eastern Conference. In other words Hamilton was the best of a bad lot. The big question is "Will 1981 be the year for the Argos?"

Winter has finally arrived here in Haliburton County and after a long delay we have run into that white stuff that is more commonly known as snow. Some people keep talking of how wonderful it would be to have a green Christmas. It's not for me. I don't think that it ever feels like Christmas without snow.

Frank McIntyre is back home in Haliburton and would appreciate a visit from any of his friends.

We all seem to be very disturbed over the state of the economy and rightly so, and how it is going to effect each and every one of us here in Haliburton County. The month of November was anything but good here. Just ask any of the local merchants and for the first time in years local citizens are starting to wonder just how bad things are going to get back here in the Highlands before they get any better. Don't let anyone tell you that things are rosy here because they are not. They are anything but, and it's high time that we all realized this and started to face up to reality. A person made the remark recently that we would never notice a depression back here as this county has been in one for years. I wonder just how bad things have to get before we start to realize that we have to have more than two months' tourist business in the summer to survive. We have to get something in this county that is going to employ some people and get some money back into the local economy for twelve months of the year. We have to work our way out of cozy little corners and make sure that the man on the street has a job.

Congratulations to Bernie Nicholls, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Nicholls of West Guilford, who is really burning up the ice for the Kingston Canadiens of the Junior "A" Hockey League. In many of the games the Kingston star has been averaging two goals a game and just recently he was selected as the player of the week in the Junior "A" league. He was picked up by the Los Angeles Kings in the draft and should be a sure thing to make the big time.

For those who haven't memorized the National Anthem yet:

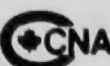

O Canada, our home and native land,
True patriot love in all thy sons command,
With glowing hearts we see thee rise,
The True North strong and free;
FROM FAR AND WIDE, O Canada,
We stand on guard for thee,
GOD, KEEP OUR LAND, glorious and free,
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee,
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.

Susan Woodcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Woodcock of Haliburton was the guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Rotary Club of Haliburton. Susan, who has spent some time in Switzerland, gave us a slide presentation and an interesting commentary on that beautiful country. During the slide presentation we noticed the many miles of highways and tunnels through the mountains and that Switzerland can mobilize a 600,000 man army in just two hours.

It was Joan Sutton who said that in the game of chess, the pawns move ever forward, to victory or defeat. In the game of life, people move in every direction, sometimes ending up farther back than they were at the start of the game.

Pic of the Past

Our Pic of the Past this week shows the members of the Women's Institute posing for this photo in front of the stone entrance to the fairgrounds in Haliburton in 1934. The local Women's Institute was formed in the early 1900's and was disbanded in 1945. They met in the old town hall in the village and they would arrange to have a special speaker come to their meetings which were held once every month. They also organized concerts in the town hall. The W.I. were involved in crafts, something similar to the work being carried on now by the Guild of Fine Arts. This work included quilting, crocheting, needle work, oil painting, water colours, pencil drawings, rug hooking. Mrs. George Potts Sr. was the first president and Mrs. W. R. Curry was the secretary for many years. One of the organization's highlights of the year was the annual picnic which was held every September when they would go on a hayride to various locations such as Moon's and Moody's. Our thanks to Ron Curry of Haliburton for supplying us with the information for this photo.

From the Chamber

by Bob Stinson

The Winter Accommodation Guide, which is the first portion of the Chamber's new promotional campaign to be produced, has taken off with a great deal of enthusiasm. The guide, which was actually designed to be distributed with the new brochure when printed for the moment is being circulated by itself to Travel Agents, Auto Clubs and Information Centres. The initial printing has been exhausted already and we have requests now for over 3,500 more guides from enthusiastic recipients. In view of this development we went back to the members listed in the guide to ask if they would pay to have an additional 5,000 guides printed to fill the demand. Many had already had bookings resulting from the first printing and didn't hesitate to take advantage of even more exposure. The second printing will be available by next week.

The success of this first publication makes us even more enthusiastic about the anticipated success of the new approach the Chamber is taking to promoting business for their members this year. The members of the Building Trades section agree and held a meeting last week at which they decided they would like to support their own section in the Chamber directory rather than produce another of their annual Building Trades Directories. With 25,000 of these directories being distributed locally this decision makes a lot of sense.

If you're not part of this sure fire promotional package yet may we suggest you don't delay. We are working to a December 12th deadline.

Bantam Tournament This Weekend

The Lake Kashagawigamog Tourist Association got together with Haliburton Minor Hockey some seven years ago and discussed the idea of running a three-day Atom Hockey Tournament to encourage winter business. It was successful and after several years they expanded their efforts to include the Alcide Carpentier Memorial Pee Wee Tournament, which is also very successful.

This year they have expanded once again and the two groups for the first time are operating the Hodgson Memorial Bantam Tournament for three days. The tournament will consist of 16 teams from as far away as Detroit, who will bring along with them about 300 parents and spectators on an otherwise quiet December weekend.

The organizations should be congratulated and encouraged for their consistent initiative and we do hope you will all provide a warm friendly welcome to all the visitors you will encounter this weekend. The action starts at 3:30 Friday at the Haliburton arena and runs through to Sunday afternoon. Drop in and see some great International hockey.

Sir Sandford placement 86 percent

Placement rates among graduates of Sir Sandford Fleming College stand at 86 percent, the placement offices of Sir Sandford's Brealey and Frost Campuses announced last week.

At the Brealey Campus in Peterborough, 82 percent of the 412 graduates looking for employment found work after graduation. At Frost, 92 percent of graduates found employment.

On a divisional basis, 96 percent of students at Brealey's Technical Division found jobs after graduation, up three percent over last year.

At the Frost Campus in Lindsay, the 92 percent rate represented a two percent placement rate drop from 1979.

Of the 658 students who graduates from the college last spring and were available for employment, 563 are now employed.

Bill Smiley

Shotgun column coming up. Reason? I've just been through a real mother of a 'flu attack, and the little bit of brain matter still alive, inside a body that feels as though the Gestapo had been having a go at it, is not capable of the usual sustained, melodious, incomparable prose essay.

Item. After looking forward to my old lady getting home from two weeks in the north country, after laying on arrangements for her to be picked up at the airport and dropped at our door, after making the house look as though I'd hired an expert housekeeper, I blew it.

I was listening to a particularly noisy TV programme. I wandered downstairs about the time she was to arrive, just in time to find her opening the cellar door with an expression the Gorgon would have envied. She'd got in a bit early, rung the doorbell when she found the door locked. No response. She checked the garage. Yes, the car was there; he wasn't off somewhere carousing, unless on foot. Lights in the house all on.

More doorbell ringing. No answer. Finally, she forced open one of the cellar windows and crawled in, dragging her best white suitcase behind her, across the woodpile beneath the window. I'd kept the door locked, because I'd become used to doing so while she was away. Hadn't heard the bell. Five minutes after she got home, I was wishing she'd go away for another two weeks.

Day after she got home, I got the 'flu, which she took as a personal affront. Lay around groaning and hawking and spitting and drinking plenty of fluids, until she was wishing she'd stayed away for another two weeks.

Item. Doctors and well-meaning friends urge you to take it easy, that you are not indispensable. Well, they're completely wrong. Some of us are indispensable.

Like me. I took two days in bed, and returned to work to find chaos. Three members of my English staff off sick, one of them for good, eighteen pieces of administrative to sort out, new timetables to be arranged, and, feeling like a wet rag that has just been wrung out, eleven-seventy essays and tests to mark, and four exams to set.

I'm looking at those New Career ads in the paper. Can't seem to find anything suiting a venerable gentleman with no manual or technical or organizational skills.

I'm thinking seriously of joining my son when he goes back to Paraguay. Surely I could be of some use down there. I make a fine pot of tea, and could teach English as a second language, and I am an expert at dandling babies on my knee.

Item. Budget. Allan McEachin should be renamed Allan Machiavelli. Mackenzie King is chortling in his grave as he watches one of his disciples go through the old Liberal routine: you can fool most of the people most of the time; use the carrot as well as the stick; never let your right hand know what your right hand is doing; learn to speak out of both corners of your mouth at the same time; and energy taxes if necessary but not necessarily energy taxes.

If the average household ran its budget as does the federal government, we'd all be on welfare. And that's just about where Canada stands now. On welfare. Borrowing from one finance company to pay the interest owed to another finance company. Holding out its hands to the poor, with gall in one palm, and vinegar in the other.

Item. The Consti-bloody-tution. Trudeau acting like a near-sighted lion, with his comfortable majority. Joe Clark and Ed Broadbent waving futile fists in the air. And the provinces, like so many jackals, each striving to tear off a juicy morsel of meat before the lion roars.

Item. I'll never write another ode to October. This has been the rottenest (rotten, rotterest, rottenest?) in many a year. Where are the Octobers of yesteryear, with their magnificent colours, their clear blue skies and mellow sunshine, their opportunity to haul out the boat or get in a last few rounds of golf?

It rains. It sleets. It snows. And it's might cold, in our parts. The splash of brilliant colour has been turned a sort of dun, and the wind and rain have stripped the foliage before it had a chance to show its fancy undergarments.

Report from Parliament

by MP Bill Scott

Bill Scott, Member of Parliament for Victoria-Haliburton, says Ontario is far ahead of the other provinces in finalizing an agreement with the federal government on the energy conversion grant program announced in the October 28 federal budget.

Although the federal/provincial agreement has not been worked out as yet, Scott decided to release the following information to answer the many enquiries he has received, and also to dispel some misconceptions that exist with respect to the program.

The federal government will begin to mail our grant cheques April 1, 1981, and all conversions initiated on or after October 28, 1980 will qualify for grants.

Under the program the government will pay half the cost of conversion to other accepted forms of home heating systems, up to a maximum of $800. The program will run for ten years, until 1990, and the grant ceiling will be increased each year to take into account the annual rise in the consumer price index.

Scott said there is no real urgency to convert home heating systems in order to take advantage of the grant program, but he said that it is important for anyone who converts after October 28, 1980, to retain copies of conversion contracts and receipts for payment.

Early information on the Ontario/federal government negotiations indicates that Ontario will approve conversion to natural gas, electricity, propane, wood stoves, and possibly heat pumps and solar energy.

With regard to wood burning stoves, the grant will be paid where it can be shown that converting to wood heat will reduce oil consumption by at least 50 percent, but the government has imposed some requirements on this type of conversion.

Stoves used in wood-heat conversions must meet safety standards established for solid-fuel stoves by the Canadian Standards Association or Underwriters Laboratories of Canada. And, the stoves must be certified as being air-tight.

Scott has learned that the technical committees of C.S.A. and U.L.C. are working together to establish uniform, industry-wide safety standards for solid-fuel stoves, and a working paper on the new standards could be easier for people planning to convert to wood heat to quality for the grant.

The energy conversion grant program will be administered in the various provinces by a provincial utility or by a Crown corporation. The administering agencies will publish information on the program, and they will also distribute application forms within the provinces.

Scott said that some companies, and individuals, are converting wood stoves to combination gas-wood and oil-wood heating systems, and he warned that anyone planning to install one of these combination systems should check carefully to ensure that the system has been approved by the C.S.A., U.L.C. or the Canadian Gas Association.

Snowdon minutes

At the November meeting of Snowdon council, the following decisions were made:

Robert Walker, a lawyer appearing on behalf of Mr. R. Carsten, requested that council give consideration to the passing of a by-law under Section 29a (2) of The Planning Act, R.S.O. 1970, as amended, in respect of property his client owned within the township which had originally been conveyed in 1971. Pending consultation with the township solicitor, this matter was left in abeyance.

Ms. D. Robertson expressed to council her concern re: the results of a chemical analysis performed on a sample of her drinking water. Council advised Mrs. Robertson that this matter would be taken under advisement.

Applications for the position of road superintendent's helper were reviewed by council and in view of the scant number of applications, council decided that a further notice be placed in the local paper with a closing date of December 5.

The Ministry of Transportation and Communications will be petitioned for interim payment of the 1980 road subsidy, council agreed.

Road voucher #10 in the amount of $39,559.19 for the month of October was approved for payment.

It was the decision of council that the rates for the snowplowing of private driveways during the forthcoming winter would be $5 for each 15 minute period or fraction thereof.

General accounts in the amount of $2,823.15 and general welfare assistance in the amount of $558.00 for the month of October were approved.

A minor variance was granted to Mr. E. MacAdam in respect of Land Severance Application # H89/80, the frontage being 2 feet and the area 350 square feet less than the requirements of By-law 3/78.

Land Severance Applications numbers H233/80, H228/80 and H277/80, were approved, a condition being imposed on H228/80 that the entrance from the township road be approved by the township road superintendent.

Fund raising for library at $55,000

The fund-raising efforts of the Minden Library-Museum Committee have now passed $55,000 with a recent $1,000 gift from the Samuel and Saydne Bronfman Family Foundation of Montreal.

The Minden Library-Museum Committee is a group of area residents providing support and raising funds to finance the new library complex on the Bobcaygeon Road. The total project, which is being undertaken by the Municipality of Anson, Hinds and Minden, is estimated at $120,000 of which the committee is attempting to raise $70,000.

Erection of the squared timber walls by Confederation Log Homes Ltd. and the closing in of the building is now completed. The complex is expected to be in full operation by next summer.

Other contributors to the fund have included the Ontario Ministry of Culture and Recreation, Robert Case Realty Ltd., the Minden Kinettes, Shell Resources Ltd., Terrelac Properties Ltd., Kawartha Dairy Ltd., Molson Companies Donation Fund, Imasco Ltd. (Imperial Tobacco), Read Bros. Ltd., Nicol and Johnston, the Minden Times, and the Haliburton County Echo. A total of nearly $10,000 has been received from private individuals and a further $4,000 by fund-raising projects of the committee.

Huntsville's goalie in top form for match

Huskies lose to weakest team

The Haliburton Huskies should have had an easy time of it Saturday night. They were at home and meeting the weakest team in the league. But Huntsville's goal tender was hot that night, too hot for the Huskies Shooters to handle. And by the time the smoke cleared, the Huskies had managed only a single goal, while Huntsville had banged in four.

Huntsville got off the mark first in the opening period, beating the Huskies defense and goal keeper Dave Elstone on a one-two-three passing play at 3:17.

The local squad was kept at bay by the Huntsville net minder until the 10:16 mark, when Mike Rae teamed up with Chris Hodgson and Scott Rae to even the score.

From that point on, despite everything the Huskies put together, the game belonged to Huntsville as far as the scoreboard was concerned.

At the 14:30 mark of the period, Huntsville put another one past Elstone to make it 2-1, and round out the first period scoring.

In the second period, neither team was able to improve their position.

The third period also belonged to Huntsville, as they made it 3-1 at 9:40 on a passing play.

With only moments left in the game, the Huskies opted to go with six attackers, but the effort backfired when Huntsville slipped one into the open net at 19:49 to cap a 4-1 victory.

Sunday the Huskies travelled to Parry Sound expecting, and getting, some tough competition. With only eleven skaters available to back up starting goal tender Craig Wood while Elstone got a rest, the Huskies knew they had to skate hard to stay in the game. But they did just that, coming up with one of the better games of the season and gaining a single point.

Parry Sound got on the board first with a goal at the 3:36 mark, but the Huskies stormed back on a power play advantage at 5:16 when Darrin MacInnis drove one home with assists from Ron Yake and Roger Hicks.

At 15:14 of the period Haliburton moved out in front when Mike Rae found the mesh, assisted by Rob Abbs. Early in the second period Parry Sound rallied to tie the score on a three man passing play at 1:24.

At 6:09, Ron Yake got his second of the night, this time unassisted, and the score was tied once again.

An interference call against Roger Hicks at 9:23 brought out the Parry Sound power play and ended in a goal at 10:39.

With 4:42 left to play in the period Parry Sound broke the tie and moved out in front, 4-3. The Huskies could not connect in the time remaining and went into the dressing room needing a strong third period to stave off a loss.

A little over two minutes after the opening faceoff it was the Huskies turn to capitalize on a penalty. With the man advantage, Ron Yake got his second of the night, assisted by Mike Rae to tie the score at four apiece.

Some four minutes and 45 seconds into the period, Dave Nicholls also found the mark for the Huskies and they moved out in front 5-4. But the lead was short-lived. Only nine seconds later, Parry Sound beat Craig Wood to tie the score at five, and that's the way the game ended.

The Huskies will travel to Midland Friday night, and will be at home Saturday night against Bracebridge. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

Atoms gain 2 wins and a tie

Nicholls scores hat trick in third period to tie game

The Haliburton OMHA Atoms completed a busy and successful week of hockey with two wins and one tie.

Last Tuesday a strong Beaverton team came to town prepared to win. At the end of two periods of hockey, the score was Beaverton 3 and Haliburton 0. Although the boys were playing well, they just were unable to put the puck in the net. Then in the third period, the boys came alive, led by their leading scorer Erin Nicholls. Big "Red" started the scoring with less than three minutes into the period, assisted by Jeff Warburton and Jaro Cooper. Again five minutes later Nicholls scored from Jeff Warburton. With only two minutes to play in the game, Nicholls completed his "Hat Trick", this time assisted by Jaro Cooper. The final score was Beaverton 3 and Haliburton 3.

On Friday, the team travelled to Fenelon Falls for another exciting game. After being down 1 to 0 at the end of the first period, the team finished strong in posting a 3 to 1 victory. In this win, it was the strong play of the "Rookie" line that provided the scoring power. Haliburton's first goal came in the second period from Dean Brownson, assisted by Phillip Johnston. Haliburton did not get into the lead until over half-way into the third period when Phillip Johnston converted a nice break-out play from Dean Brownson and Darren Byers. With less than one minute to go, Erin Nicholls scored the clincher on a pretty solo rush.

Last Sunday, the boys travelled to Beaverton and hoped to improve on the tie last Tuesday.

Once again, Haliburton had to come from behind in the first period on a goal by Erin Nicholls from Charlie Frankland. Charlie, playing only his second game for the OMHA team, came up with the goal in the second period from Greg Scheffee. With the score tied 2-2 going into the third period, another tie seemed imminent, but with only three minutes left to play, Jaro Cooper scored the winner, assisted by Erin Nicholls and Jeff Warburton. The final score, Haliburton 3, Beaverton 2.

After 10 games this season, the team has a record of 7 wins, 2 ties and 1 loss. It is interesting to note that in 8 of the games, the difference in score has been only one goal.

The best shot wins

Dig out your hockey sticks, find a patch of ice and start practising your aim. You just might win a brand new car.

The Haliburton Huskies have announced a new fundraising scheme to replace their traditional 50/50 draws. Instead of splitting a pot, people who buy draw tickets at the team's home games could get a chance to shoot for cash or the big prize, a 1981 AMC Spirit valued at $7,500.

Team manager Don Lloyd said Monday that three tickets will be drawn at each home game, giving the ticket holders a chance to aim for the cash or car. Shooters will line up at centre ice and fire at a wooden panel placed in the goal mouth. Openings in each corner of the panel will have values of $5 and $10. If the puck passes through, the shooter wins the cash. The big challenge though will be to try for the car. To win it, the shooter must put the puck through an ice level opening the centre of the panel. With a mere eighth of an inch clearance for the puck on either side of the opening and an eighth of an inch above, the shot will have to be extremely precise. Whether luck, skill or a little of both prevail, the puck can go through the opening.

The scheme has been used successfully by other teams in the league, Lloyd said. So why not get out your sticks and start shooting. The practice might pay off in the form of a car.

First chances are expected to come this Saturday night at the Dystart arena when the Huskies take on Bracebridge.

Tri-County pee wees break winning streak

The Haliburton Tri-County Pee Wees, who have been dubbed the Bad News Bears by their new coach, snapped a five game losing streak by downing the visiting Bobcaygeon team 2-1 last Saturday at the Dystart arena.

This was the first win of the season for the local boys who have failed to score a goal this year.

Jeff Popple opened the scoring for Haliburton at 2:21 of the second period when he fired a backhand shot by the Bobcaygeon goalie after receiving an errant pass. At 7:25 of the third period Eoin Ross skated in from the point to pick up a pass and fired it past the visiting goalie Colin Hunter and Darin Whittaker picked up assist on the play.

With 4:25 in the third period Bobcaygeon picked up their lone goal. At this point Haliburton put on a defence stand and kept Bobcaygeon out of the end zone to salvage a hard-fought victory.

The Butz jewels: treasures in their own time

Living on Blue Hawk makes jewelry production an enjoyable way of life for artists

by Sue Cooper

Near the shores of Blue Hawk Lake, a small log building is nestled in among the trees. Wisps of good-smelling wood smoke slowly drift out of the chimney, adding an enjoyable dimension to the cool November air.

As the wooden door opens, Solomon, a friendly sort of dog, is there and then the smiling faces of Mike and Sue Butz greet you; welcoming you into their cozy studio.

Inside the log building, which was reconstructed by the Butzes this summer, is a well-organized Upstairs, an unfinished loft houses Sue's temporarily forgotten spinning wheel and loom. She swears she will pick it up again when she gets the time.

At the mention of a coffee, Sue nips out of the studio and crosses a small piece of yard to the couple's house. She returns shortly with coffee and fruit cake. These actions only seem to further instill the feelings of friendliness and the more simplified life this couple have chosen.

Sue, a slim woman with a pretty face and long dark brown hair, sits down on her chair which has been well-padded to make sitting for long hours at reaching all-time highs, it might seem that interest in custom-made jewelry might have dwindled but instead, Mike thinks the increases might have helped in a way.

"Gold's gotten more popular," says Mike. With the rise in price, more people might be keen to use jewelry as an investment rather than a luxury, Mike suggests, but he admits he isn't quite sure.

"Gold is really nice, there's no question about it," Mike adds.

With the increase in the gold price, people have now started bringing in old gold to have it melted down and incorporated in a more modern or better made piece of jewelry, Mike says.

When working with new gold, the couple use 14 karat (K) which they say is about the best gold for making good quality and long lasting jewelry.

Sue explains that while 14K is not as pure as 22K it is better than 10K. Twenty-two karat is seldom used because it is not durable and usually bends, twists or breaks with regular wear, Sue says.

Gold is classified by the amount of gold that is actually in the composition of the metal, measured in twenty-fourths; with 14K being 14/24 of gold, Sue explained.

Silver is graded on a different scale, split into a thousandth of a fraction. Sterling silver is rated a .925 while pure silver is .999, Mike says.

When the couple begin to work, they start with good material such as solid 14K gold staying away from the plating process that is used in most factories where high production is important.

While Mike usually does most of the stone setting and Sue most of the jewelry which is cut from sheets of metal, they both enjoy forging the metal.

On the big anvil in the centre of the floor they can hammer and shape the metal into the desired thickness and shape.

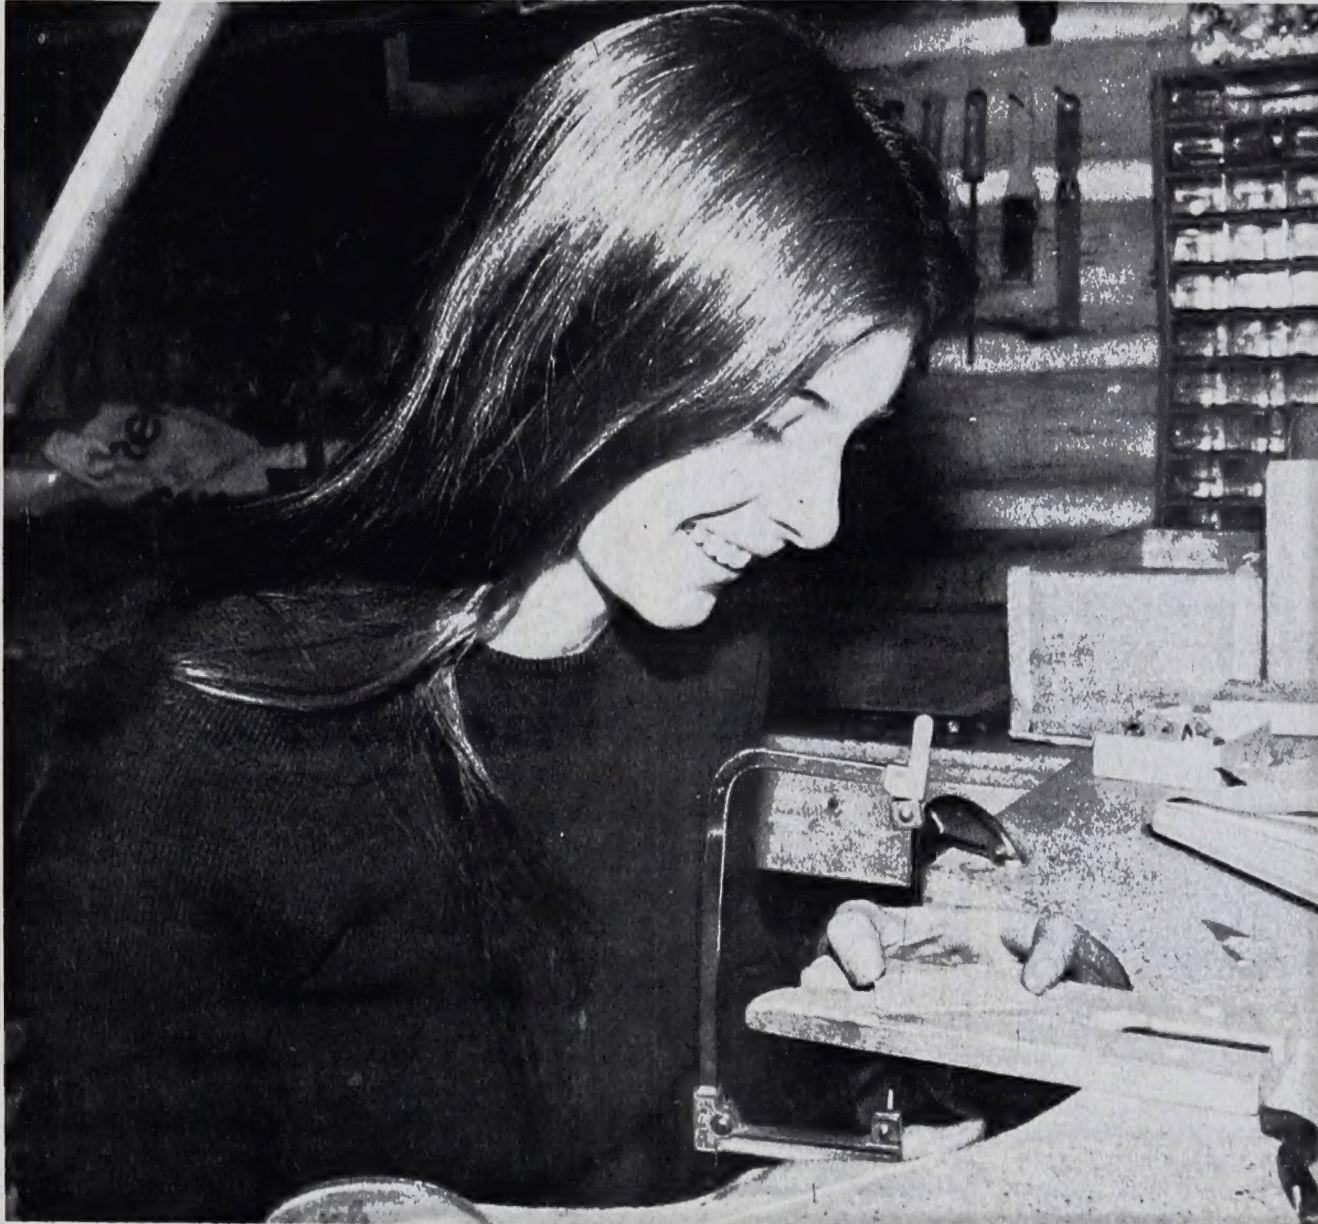

"It's a great release," Sue laughs.

In order to make beautiful and appealing jewelry, the artists need to possess a multitude of talents. No matter what the design, Sue and Mike must both start off with a drawing of the particular piece of jewelry.

When Sue is cutting directly on the metal her drawings have to be extremely accurate as the tissue she draws on is attached to the metal and then she cuts around it.

One of the most intriguing aspects of their work is custom designing jewelry for private individuals. When a client approaches the Butzes the first session is usually spent establishing a rapport and coming up with a design that both the buyer and the artist are going to be proud of, Sue says.

jewelry workshop and display area. On the right, a U-shaped work bench lines the walls with two chairs facing in opposite directions. Various sized files hang on the walls and two windows look out onto the snow covered landscape around Blue Hawk Lake.

The two work areas where the artists create their jewelry look in opposite directions; Sue's towards the lake which offers gorgeous scenery and Mike's at a blank chip board wall, so he can get his work done, he says.

In the centre of the studio a new airtight wood stove, pumping in heat, and an anvil sitting nearby are at home in the log building. On the other side of the room, and seemingly quite removed from the work area is a small, but beautiful display of the couple's creations.

In the rear of the building, hidden from sight, the Butzes have made room for the necessary machinery but keep it from destroying the simple feeling of the room.

the work bench more comfortable.

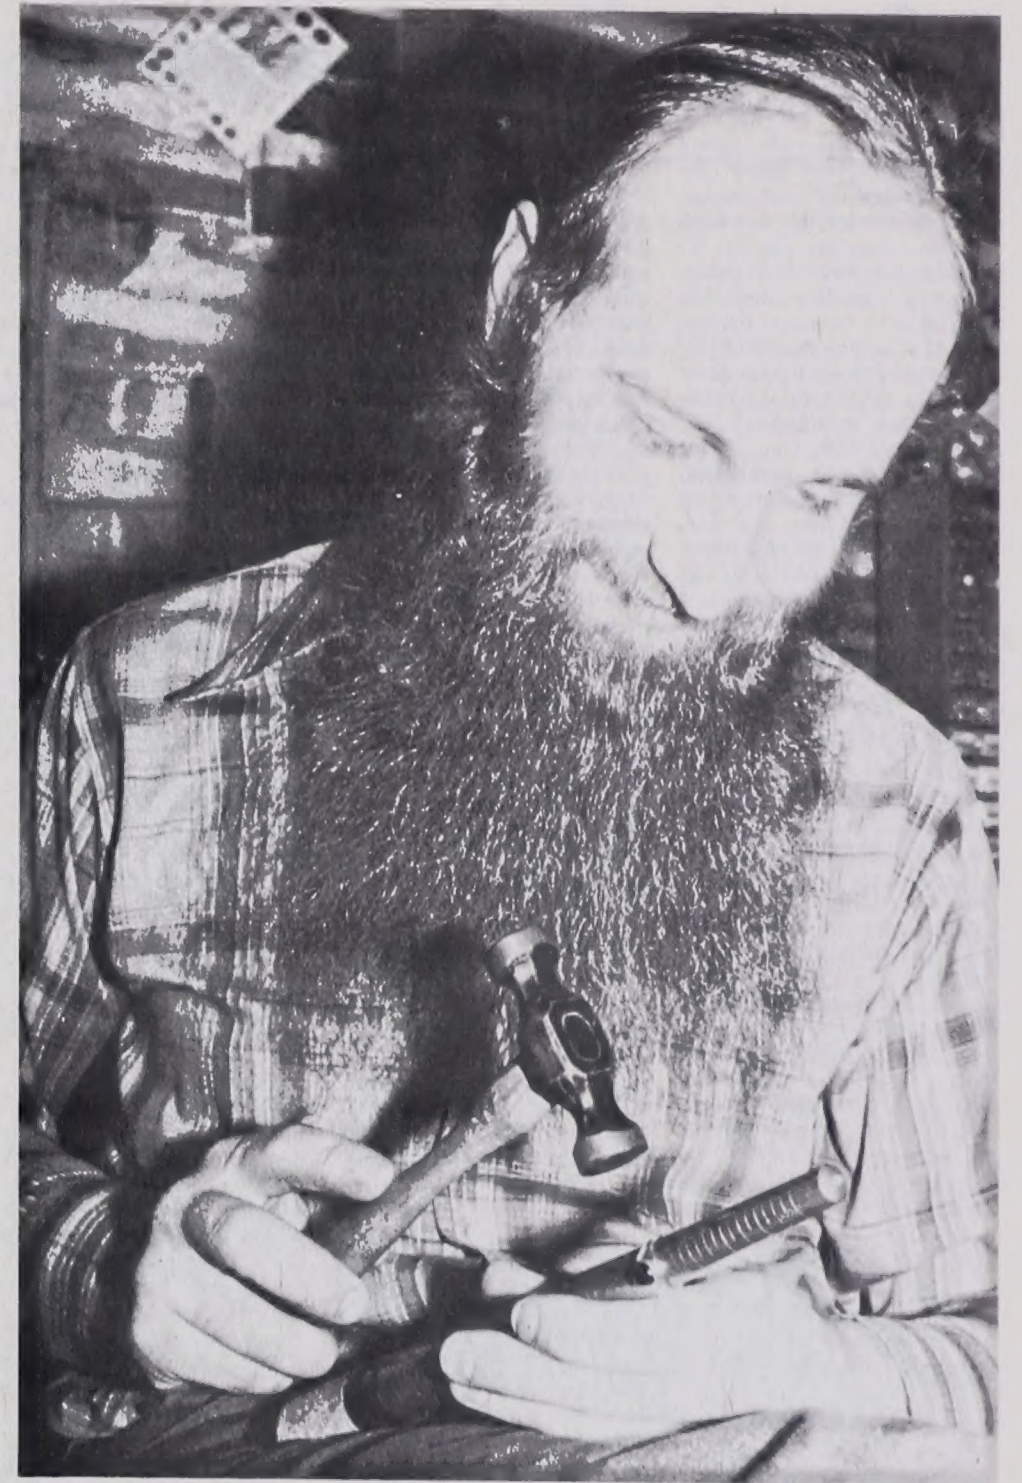

Sitting opposite her, Mike, a relatively big man with a beard, which reaches down to his chest, takes a piece of fruit cake.

Mike and Sue are probably living out the dream of every person who has an ounce of artistic ability in their blood. Since moving to the area in June, the couple have reconstructed the 1930 log building, adding a second floor and have nicely settled into the routine of creating their own jewelry. However, self-employment is not new to the Butzes who spent the last four and a half years operating a studio and craft shop in New Hamburg before deciding to buy a house on Blue Hawk.

Both graduates of Sheridan School of Design in Mississauga, Mike enrolled with the aim of majoring in metal work. Although Sue was originally interested in weaving, she became disenchanted with the course and switched to jewelry design.

Extendicare News

by Dr. W. O. Anderson

Monday afternoon baking saw Vivian Bowen, Hazel Parish, Vera Griffin, Elizabeth McIntosh and Flossie Burk making a cherry loaf so we can have it instead of cookies for our snack when the reverend comes on Friday. Pat Burk, our activities director, often goes to extra trouble to have things ready when they are needed.

Monday evening we watched the superspecial, "The Sound of Music" on TV starring Julie Andrews and Christopher Plummer and as a musical it was most delightful. At its inception it was a hit for all ages in every sense, but now "big name" shows are scarce, maybe too costly to produce, often run foul of the censor, and then do not appeal to as wide a spectrum of society as they once did. Since society has been liberated the taste for amusement has undergone a vast change. Even in our time we went without big shows for many years and we will have to be content to do it again.

Wednesday morning June Devolin brought her mother Cassie Sarginson and a friend Nada Vaughan when she came to conduct her bible study, the topic being in Corinthians 1, ch. 13 on 'love'. It would be a very bleak world without it for of the three things we need, faith, hope and love, the greatest is love.

In the afternoon our ladies, Flossie Burk, Lila Simmons, Maude Weston, Noreen Stevens, Hazel Parish, Christine McCrae, Vera Griffin, Elizabeth McIntosh, Elsie Woodcock and Vivia Bowen got busy with our Christmas baking, everything they could think of. It should be a very nice festive season.

About this time of year we should start a sort of smokers anonymous for any boy or girl of Haliburton and region who started to smoke and now are sorry. You could not give your mom and dad a nicer gift for Christmas or make a nicer New Year's resolution. All it needs is enough discipline and you all have that. Start right now to say 'No' and you will be happier, think clearer, gymnastics will be easier without being out of breath, you will eat with a relish and lose that fuzzy taste and to top it all, you will save a bundle.

Thursday noon was the time for us to mingle with the senior citizens of Haliburton at the Dysart Community Centre for the now famed pot luck dinners. Here is one place where luck provides. Every resident of Extendicare is invited (62) but only - Christina McCrae, Hazel Parish, Flossie Burk, Norman Titus, Watson Anderson, Alice Hartle, Elsie Porter, Frank Powell, Jack Pollard, Edward Thorlakson, and Elizabeth McIntosh. Frank Powell, Jack Pollard, Edward Thorlakson, and Elizabeth McIntosh went. As usual president Emil Neimann chaired the occasion and invited Ken Stewart to say grace. Not until extencicare were served were the buffet tables available to all, a gesture we thought was pretty nice. There was more than ample food and as always the most delicious coffee. Thank you good citizens of Haliburton and area.

Conservation nowadays is quite a dire need more than we think. Just think how dependent we all are on those massive turbines in Ontario that day and night keep turning out the power to heat many homes, heat the water for washing and bathing, and cooking. How would most of you fare now without it and yet it seems not too many are trying to conserve its use, having reached the bottom line of restraint unless authority starts nagging at us to do much more. Why wait for the nagging; do it now.

Friday, Pastor the Rev. John Smith of Lakeside Baptist Church conducted the devotional period taking his message from Isaiah, Ch. 55 wherein Isaiah exhorted his people to fear and worship their almighty God and in return many blessings would come to them. Mrs. Margaret Sisson was our pianist.

In the afternoon we had two movies - 1. The Shoe Shine Girl, showing that if one wants a job, best do what comes to you to do and eventually you will have plenty to do. 2. The Long Haul Men that drive are a special breed of drivers that drive routes of thousands of miles, driving nearly every day.

They team up in pairs and take turns at the wheel. It did not show if they had a payload both ways, otherwise there would be a lot of waste effort and wear on the machine. These drivers did not find it as monotonous as are led to believe it is. The route shown was one that brought shrimp from the Gulf of Mexico to Alberta in five days. A fuel fillup is usually 150 gallons with mileage of four miles per.

Saturday noon the writer was taken by car to the Haliburton Red Cross Hospital after falling on ice lurking under this fresh snow. The hospital staff were marvelous in kindness, but revealed that he will be physically handicapped for two months, maybe longer. Extencicare staff are determined that Watson will not lose out in the Christmas festivities.

We were delighted to hear on TV that the federal and Ontario governments are jointly making a start on planting hybrid poplar in the Kempville area using cuttings seven feet apart both ways. This will permit of the only cultivation feasible, that of culling and removing other forest debris but not wide enough for those behemoths.

Rails' End hosts fine Christmas exhibition

The Christmas spirit will be at its best for the next 15 days as the Rails' End Gallery opens its doors for the annual Guild of Fine Arts Christmas Exhibition and Sale, on Friday morning.

This year's show, which features many local arts and crafts will be organized on a rotating basis allowing crafts people to exhibit more work and also the public to see different displays each week. Gallery secretary, Debbie Bates, said Tuesday that all 300 guild members as well as the general public have been invited to contribute their work to the exhibition.

Many fine arts and crafts such as painting, pottery, weaving, stained glass, leather work, wood crafts, painting, batik, silk screen prints and macramé will be for sale.

The exhibition is an excellent opportunity to buy that special gift that represents the talents of Haliburton County.

The exhibition runs daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Fridays 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sundays 12 noon until 4 p.m.

Members of the guild have also been invited to display hand-made Christmas decorations on the gallery tree. These decorations will also be for sale to those individuals who would like to add a nice touch to their family tree.

Throughout the sale, visitors to the gallery are invited to enjoy coffee and goodies prepared by the guild members.

It's not work to walk.
So why not walk to work?

Home Support News

by Catherine Denholm

The regular board meeting of the Haliburton County Home Support Services was held in the Dysart Council Chambers on November 21, 1980. This meeting is always held on the third Friday of the month - it is open to everyone and starts at 1:00 p.m. ending about 2:30. December is the only month when there is no public meeting - come in January and enjoy the enthusiasm which this service generates in the representatives from all parts of the county.

Constable Magee of the Ontario Provincial Police showed a film "Senior Power" which warned older folks of the dangers everywhere, although more pronounced in cities, of purse snatching, breaking into homes, and con games to which seniors might be more susceptible. The film also suggested the best way to handle yourself in various situations.

The various convenors reported on the month's work with Meals on Wheels. There have been 179 meals delivered since last meeting.

Many older folk, who would ordinarily not be able to get out for a meal or a social time, and the volunteers who drive them, have enjoyed outings at Locarno, Sunny Rock Lodge and Wagon Wheel. These meals will be $3.00 from now on and, as was mentioned by Doris McCann in a letter to the editor recently, these meals are put on by the establishments mentioned above, as a service to the seniors who need a change, and are not subsidized by government sources or anyone else.

A Friendly Visiting Workshop was held at PineStone Inn on November 4 to help volunteers who will be visiting handicapped people. Forty-six volunteers attended the workshop from Haliburton County.

A successful interchange of ideas took place in November between senior citizens and the Grade 11 Family Living

Marie Wallace, co-ordinator of Home Support Services and Laura Aymong, teacher of the Family Living Course, arranged two periods when six students visited the classroom. Mrs. Wallace Sr. of Eagle Lake, Dr. Anderson from Extencicare, Mrs. Sibley of the senior citizens' apartments, Mrs. Elwood Austin and Mr. Britton of Haliburton village and myself. We discussed aging; watched a film "Reaching Out" which showed people of all ages helping others; talked about ways that older people and teenagers could benefit by talking together. Then, in small groups, with a senior in each group, there was an enthusiastic exchange of questions and ideas. We seniors came away with a high regard for these young women.

Doris McCann did an excellent job in October on Channel 12 T.V. explaining what the Haliburton County Home Support Services is doing in this county. Many will have watched and agree that it was a very able presentation of the help being given to our less fortunate older folks.

A most enjoyable bus trip to Queen's Park took place on October 28 for our volunteers. Lunch was enjoyed in the company of John Eakins and the Hon. Keith Norton who are both aware of the needs of seniors as well as the value of the volunteer.

As of November 27, transportation is available to seniors who live in the Maple Lake, Eagle Lake, West Guilford areas twice a month. So folks, make your doctor/dentist appointments, plan your shopping list, stop in at the drop-in centre especially for you at the Legion (upstairs coffee room) 11:30 - 2:00 p.m. and have a rest and a cup of tea, or attend the senior's regular Thursday luncheon at the arena - you're most welcome there! Call these people to make your ride arrangement - Betty Yatemann 754-2269, Emily Schroter 754-2718 or Ev Stata 754-2204.

The work of the Support Services is gradually expanding. It is in the plans now to extend the programme to include Gooderham and Wilberforce very soon.

Clearwater couple celebrate 65th wedding anniversary

On September 7, 1980 Mr. and Mrs. Ken Maguire of Wolfe Lake near Gooderham, entertained relatives and friends at their home in honour of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Stewart, formerly of Clearwater, Florida, now living in Lindsay, on the occasion of their 65th wedding anniversary. They were overwhelmed with all the wires, phone calls, gifts and cards presented to them. Their granddaughter, Mrs. Donna Bryant, Pontypool, Ontario made the cake which centered the table. Two of their six great grandchildren were able to attend, Kevin and Paula Bryant. The other four live in the United States. Mr. Stewart was 90 on September 8, 1980 and Mrs. Stewart will be 91 on November 30, 1980. Friends and relatives attended from Toronto, Lakefield, Weston, Scarborough, Rexdale, Bowmanville, Sutton and Pontypool as well as friends around the lake.

Wilberforce News

by Winnie Schofield

Preparations for the Christmas season are advancing at a very early date this year. The Santa Claus parade started the whole thing by taking place at the beginning of November and before the end of that month Christmas cards had been arriving and some folks had their coloured lights installed. Most people have their shopping done and numerous social events planned for the occasion are well established.

The Figure Skating Club presented their annual bazaar on November 29. They had a good selection of hand crafted articles available and the bake table offered a variety of scrumptious pies, cup cakes, tarts and home-made bread. There were tea tables with younger members of the club serving an excellent luncheon and very good tea. A raffle on a grocery hamper drew a fair number of gamblers who kept Nadeen Sanderson very busy with tickets and pens. The draw for the hamper will be held later in December.

The pottery and ceramic classes that have been taking place at the home of teacher Donna Legge of Harcourt, are now drawing to a close. The pupils were of various ages and one and all loved the course in which they learned to create from clay articles that had been poured into molds and later had to be fired and glazed. They found the course very interesting and stimulating and no doubt will want to further their studies in this handicraft.

Adele and Blake Barnes recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with a dinner at the Sword Motel. While they were thus engaged, members of the family and friends decorated their home and welcomed guests. When Adele and Blake returned they were surprised to find a house full of company who had come to help them celebrate. The evening was spent in a very friendly atmosphere with about 60 people present and many lovely gifts to open.

This weekend on Saturday, December 6 sees the Wild Life Dinner being held at the Memorial Centre under the sponsorship of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 624. Dinner will be served from 5 to 7:30 p.m. and you would be wise to be on hand early for this event. You will meet many friends and enjoy a very tasty meal. Later at the Legion hall a Hootnanny will be held to provide entertainment for the evening.

Minor Hockey representatives are happy to report that this year things are going well. They have a good organization and selection of players. The players are very enthusiastic and already have a number of wins to their credit. There has been good support shown by people and donations have been received from the Wilberforce Vener Co., the Bank of Nova Scotia, Elephant Lake Lodge and the Ridgeview Restaurant. These were used to purchase sweaters and socks for the teams. Ambrose Donaher is the president of the club with Gerry Waugh as the secretary. Plans are being made for a New Year's dance and sometime in the new year a snowmobile rally will be held. Proceeds from these events go toward ice rental. Parents and relatives make up an important audience for the minor hockey games. To these folks who attend to watch and cheer it would be much more enjoyable if someone would please attend to the heaters and get them working.

Many local residents took advantage of the excellent natural decoration workshop sponsored by the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts last Wednesday. Pat Campbell, of Minden, right, was the instructor for the day's events.

Chatting with Irene

by Irene Moore

It is here my friends! That month that children so look forward to. The month that everyone gets in a frenzy about all that still has to be done, and only so many days left to do it. Sure I'm one of those, but I'm plugging away and by next week hope to be able to sit back and say "Aha time to relax" I hope! As Patience Strong said - "Though December skies are grey and wintry it's the month of light, for at its close the glory of the Christmas Star is shining. Through the darkness of our world it glows like a lantern sending out a ray to guide and show lost travellers the way."

I hope you have all read the posters about the Minden Figure Skating Club who are having a spaghetti supper at St. Paul's Parish Hall next Sunday, December 7 from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dawkins and Beverley of Rexdale spent the weekend at their cottage.

The Scarborough Golden Age Bowling Club News had an article in it recently saying "Hats off - to Ed Luke of Carnarvon Lanes, Minden, Ontario for his 330 single."

One of the greatest sources of energy is pride in what you are doing. Mrs. Harold Deacon lost her sister, Mrs. Reg Hooley of Lakefield, recently but she appreciated all the inquiries about her while she was ill.

I saw an article in the Toronto Star recently saying that Canada's two Navy bands, on the east and west coasts are going back to traditional blue uniforms with bell-bottom trousers, jumpers and collars. This has to be done at no cost to the crown so the President of the Naval Officers Association of Canada has announced that the members will raise the money for the traditional uniforms, because the Navy bands will create good identity and bring back tradition.

It was in 1968 that the three forces were unified into the Canadian Forces and all had to wear the same green uniform with the different insignias. Boy, what a fiasco that was and if one didn't know what each insignia meant they were in trouble. Chips sat on every service man's shoulder and some are still there, for if you were Navy you still are, and the same with the Army and Airforce; regardless of the green uniform!

This Sunday evening, December 7 is the Minden United Church pot luck supper followed by the Sunday School White Gift Service.

If you don't learn to laugh at trouble, you won't have anything to laugh at when you grow old.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fletcher and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cummins have returned home from their holiday in Acapulco, Mexico. On Friday, November 28, they noticed two Canadian Naval vessels at anchor in the harbour so decided to check on them. They were the destroyer Yukon and her escort ship both on their way back to Victoria, B.C., after a cruise to South America. When it was discovered that the couples were Canadian they were invited aboard and given a complete tour of the Yukon but the best surprise of all was when the master chef and Larry found out they knew each other. Sure, it was number two son, Dennis, who also knew Nikki. Thank you Nikki for phoning and giving us the news of Dennis as soon as you arrived home and we will be anxious to see the pictures that you took.

It sure is a small world, isn't it?

Here is another Christmas recipe that can be frozen until needed. Peanut Butter Dream Bars - 1/2 cup smooth peanut butter; 1/2 cup margarine; 1/2 cup packed brown sugar; 1 egg yolk (keep the white); 1 1/2 cups all purpose flour; 2 eggs and 1 egg white; 1 cup packed brown sugar; 1 tsp. vanilla; 1/2 cup flour; 1/2 tsp. baking powder; 1/4 cup flaked coconut; 1/4 cup chopped candied cherries. Cream peanut butter, margarine and sugar. Beat in egg yolk; blend in flour mixing well. Spread in a greased 13 X 9 X 2 inch baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees F. (180 C.) 10 to 12 minutes. Beat eggs and egg white until foamy. Gradually beat in sugar; add vanilla. Blend in flour and baking powder, fold in coconut and cherries. Spread over baked cookie layer. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool in pan. Do not cut if you are going to freeze it; otherwise cut in bars. Makes about 4 dozen bars.

With hockey going strong at all arenas, this poem which was printed in the Toronto Telegram in 1964 and written by Vern Buffey's mother is worth tacking up in all dressing rooms and lobbies.

I think that I shall never see
A satisfactory referee
About whose head a halo shines,
Whose merits rate reporter's lines,
One who calls them as they are,
Not as the fans might wish by far.
Agent who leans not either way
But lets the boys decide the play;
A guy who'll sting the coach who yaps
From Vancouver Isle to Halifax.
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only GOD could referee
Even with the tie vote broken the municipality is left one councillor short. The sensible thing would be to add the councillor who lost in the recount but we will just have to wait and see, won't we?
Adios and take care now.

"Adage vs. Adage: What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander - BUT - One man's meat is another man's poison."

It looks like it's really here, with snow and slippery streets. I have heard several predictions for the coming winter but the one I like best is the one Ray Geiger, editor of the Farmer's Almanac gave, when he said it will be similar to last winter with maybe a little more snow but no severely cold temperatures. He also said that we would have a dry, hot summer, which would be a change to say the least. With the great loss of life due to earthquakes and the devastating fires in other parts of the world we don't have any right to complain about our weather in this part of the country. The bazaar held by the Anglican ladies and the Guide groups was a great success and the different groups would like to thank all those who patronized the sale and hope everyone enjoyed themselves and were happy with their purchases.

The Dorset Rangers have a new project and would welcome any help from the community that you are able to give. Through the Rev. Charles Catto, the girls have heard of a village for Indian children in the Yukon, and have been corresponding with the director, Mr. John Evans. He writes that they are in need of winter boots for little children, skirts for teenagers, pants for five to 10 year olds and underwear for all children. Also needed are good wool socks, flannel sheets, pillows, etc. The Rangers would like to gather together a parcel to send before Christmas. Please leave any donations with Linda Clark, at the home of Bill Clark, plumber. The Rangers thank you in advance for your help.

A rather sad event took place last week when the contents of Mrs. Helen Dolars home were put up for auction. I guess this is a routine event when an estate is taken over by the public trustee, but to see all of the personal effects and the treasured china and silver pieces as well as the furniture that had been collected over the years by someone, being bought up, by strangers, in a good many cases, it seems rather sad. However, I guess there is a bright side, as a few local residents got a treasure or two, which will bring happy memories in days to come.

On Monday, November 24, the Friendship Circle met at the home of Mrs. Mae Pickens with an attendance of 18. This was the Christmas meeting when the names of secret pals for the past year were divulged and Christmas gifts exchanged. Much gaiety ensued as each viewed the other's gifts and showed surprise when she found out who had been sending birthday, anniversary or other cards throughout the year. A friendly time, followed by a light lunch, was enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be held January 5 at the home of

Mrs. Margaret Pickens.

Glamorgan Senior Citizens met in the Fire Hall on Wednesday, November 26. Twenty-five members sat down to a pot luck luncheon, which was, surprisingly, a well-balanced meal with casseroles, salads, vegetable dishes, pies, cake, cookies, etc. We were happy to have several new members join the club at this time. The special feature was a talk given by Miss Dorothy Robertson on her recent trip to Britain. As she spoke, she passed colored pictures which she had taken and which showed her photography skill. Because she had lived in Britain for some time, her visits there were more of an experience of domestic life in a series of homes of friends than the usual tourist holiday.

She took us first to Guernsey Island. She spent a day on Sark where no motor vehicles except the seigneur's car and farmers' tractors were used. She and her friend used rented bicycles. In Dorset they made expeditions to Poole where the "Golden Hind", a full-scale replica of Drake's round-the-world ship was in port. In Dorchester, formerly a Roman city, is a Roman amphitheatre, still used. A week's tour of the counties of Essex, Suffolk and Norfolk followed. Here they saw the beautiful Ely Cathedral and stayed in Framlingham Manor, a 17th century house, now run as a small hotel. In the Isle of Mull (the Inner Hebrides), she spent a day on Iona, St. Columba's Holy Isle and visited the Mull Little Theatre, the smallest professional theatre in the world with a cast of 2, 1 stagehand and an audience of 42 but as good as anything to be seen in London. In London she attended the sixtieth anniversary meeting of the Association of Wrens, along with Princess Anne. Great entertainment from the Royal Marines Band and the Scottish singer, Kenneth McKel-lar, were enjoyed. She visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Bell's daughter in Northern Scotland and brought back slides of the family to show the Bells. Mrs. Jean Frazer graciously thanked Dorothy for the travelogue.

Meetings are held Wednesday at 12:30 in the fire hall. The last meeting before the holiday season will be December 10. They will then resume January 7. We invite you to join us.

Our community was shocked and saddened on Thursday when news was received that Bill Hunter had been killed in his truck near Barry's Bay. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, the former Marjorie MacDuff, his son Oswald, grandchildren Michael and Shelly Hunter, his sister Mrs. Irene McMahon and brothers Ivan, Jack and George. The deepest sympathy of our community is extended to the bereaved family.

appear but if we did have anything that could have passed for that nice respite we usually have before winter sets in, I must have missed it and I think that we didn't have more than a couple of nice days at a time. We don't like to think that winter has set in but from all appearances the past few weeks it sure looks like it.

Once again the Dorset Brownies, Guides, Pathfinders and Rangers enjoyed their annual visit to the Pines in Bracebridge a couple of weeks ago. Twenty-five girls and five leaders went by bus to Bracebridge, and entertained the residents with singing and visiting. Mr. Donald McEachern, who lived all of his life at Dorset and Paint Lake, prior to going to the Pines, especially enjoyed hearing the Dorset girls sing and chatted happily with them all.

The group finished off the afternoon by going to the Bracebridge swimming pool for a swim and a number of the girls passed some of their swimming tests, as well as having a spashing good time. A vote of thanks to the Dorset Lions Club for providing a bus for transportation as it relieves the leaders from the concern of having to provide cars and do the driving. Consequently, everyone can enjoy the whole trip.

Now, I wonder how many people lost or won money last weekend and I don't mean on the Grey Cup game, but on who shot J. R. I think that Kristin was the most popular suspect but there were certainly others who were under suspicion and had motives. At least poor Sue Ellen is in the clear. And the suspense is over.

Hoping to have more news next week.

Hello and hope all's well with you at your house.

Last week there were four names inadvertently omitted from the list of wreath, cross, spray and poppy fund donors.

Thanks go along with apologies to Simpson Motors, L.C.B.O., Kinmount Food Market and Kinmount Restaurant.

That was some foggy Monday morning to be followed up by a snowy Tuesday morning but then that's what helps make our little corner of the world so interesting isn't it?

A very happy belated 80th birthday to Verlie Young who would like to take this opportunity to say thanks to her friends and relatives who helped make her special day such a happy one last Sunday.

Verlie's daughter, Mrs. Dick Austin and granddaughter, Mrs. Lennie Brown along with 40 to 50 others joined in a party to help celebrate the happy occasion. Guests attended from King City, Kin-mount, Omeme, Peterborough, Toronto and, I hear, Verlie received at least 50 birthday cards along with some very nice gifts.

Ruth Menard, Mary and Jim Gillis were in Toronto this past week for a day or so.

Visitors at our house for a few days were Bonnie and Jim Walker who finally got started on their journey down south. While here, we four visited with Ida and Clyde Pardy in Cobocok where we partook of dinner on Sunday. Then on Monday morning after our "goodbyes" were said they visited with "gran" Pyke and Jack in Norland and then headed back to Toronto to finish up last details before leaving Tuesday morning.

two or three days. They have now left for home in Regina, Saskatchewan. Murray leaves his home out west on December 19 for Germany, this time, with the Cornwall Hockey Juniors team. They will be playing hockey there while Murray is busy at his job of scouting in five different countries over there. He will be having his Xmas dinner in Germany while his wife, Cecile will have hers with daughter and her family in Edmonton.

Welcome home from recent travels to Maggie Kylie and to Vi and Albert Crego. Ruby and Cecile Schell along with Maggie Kylie had dinner with Bertha, Bill and Keith Stata this past week.

Again, Cecile, Ruby were dinner guests of Dick and Ruby Holbrook along with Ruby Holbrook's sister, Dorothy of Toronto, who was a houseguest for a week.

Bertha Stata and Ruby Schell along with a number of other local ladies and gents had a pot luck dinner at the Senior Citizens held at the Kinmount Legion on Thursday.

Nora Crego, Verlie Young, Ruby and Dick Holbrook and sister Dorothy, Ruby and Cecile Schell were all guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dave McNamara in Kinmount last Friday where two tables of euchre was played, lunch was served and I hear it was a delightful evening all 'round'.

Congratulations to Warren Jardine on his $5000 Wintario win last Thursday.

The euchre results, November 26, at Galtway Hall were: ladies' high: Ida Young, ladies' low: Pauline Franzen, men's high: John Hickey, men's low: Ken Stuart and most lone hands: Frank Franzen.

Joan and Ken Hyams spent a few days last week, in Toronto where, on Saturday, they attended the annual Xmas dinner/dance for employees of Ken's former place of employment. He was given the "royal treatment" as having been the latest "retiree" and graciously accepted some beautiful gifts. Joan was the recipient of a dozen gorgeous red roses. They had one terrific evening there followed the next day by visiting with a number of friends and I'm told it was a beautiful weekend. They are thrilled with their first Kinmount snowfall and think it's beautiful.

Attention: Mary Oliver: here's the cake you were asking about. It's called Fruit Cocktail Cake. 1 - 19 oz. can of fruit cocktail not drained, 1 beaten egg, 1 cup white sugar, 1 1/4 cups flour, 1 tsp. soda, 1 tsp. baking powder, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. vanilla. 1/4 cup chopped walnuts, 1/2 cup brown sugar. Mix and sift all the dry ingredients together. Stir in the beaten egg, fruit cocktail (juice and all). Add vanilla and stir. Pour into well greased 9X13X2 pan. Sprinkle over the top of the batter the brown sugar and nuts which have been mixed together. Bake in a 350 degree F. oven for 45 to 55 minutes. Can be served warm or cold with either ice cream or whipped cream.

"Syd" Culpis, Kirkfield, is coming along after heart surgery, at Toronto General Hospital.

Some of the "boys" were quite busy shovelling snow and visiting with each other on Saturday morning on our main street. Don't overdo on the end of those shovels.

Send a card to our shut-ins, say a prayer for all the woes in this world and then try to have a nice day - 488-2399.

Butzes create jewellery designs

"If their idea comes close to what I like, then it's neat to design for someone," Mike said.

When a buyer visits the studio there are two routes he may choose from, Mike said. He can get to buy a piece of jewellery which has already been designed by the Butzes or he can decide to buy a piece that would truly be his own; a custom piece that will never be made for anyone else.

"We wouldn't do a direct copy. I guess it's a matter of ethics," Mike philosophizes. Although, one creation usually spurs on another idea during the work period and the new idea may be followed to create a totally different piece, Mike said.

A common problem the couple runs into is getting a price estimate on how much the buyer wants to spend on jewellery. It's much easier to necessarily any less appealing.

Some of the jobs involved in jewellery making are not as glamorous as the end product. Many hours of sanding, filing and machine buffing must be completed before the piece is ready for sale. "It's being meticulous," Mike says.

One of the not-so-nice jobs, buffing, is done in a small closet-like room where the dust cannot escape. Buffing adds the final smooth finish to the jewellery pieces and makes them gleam like the gold and silver we are used to seeing.

"It also separates a well-done piece from a not so well-done piece," Mike says as he displays a freshly buffed ring.

Although the Butzes haven't got a full marketing plan set-up yet, they are currently marketing their walk into a jewellery store where all the price ranges are displayed and choose jewellery. But when the actual question of how much the buyer would like to spend is asked, the buyer seems to be inhibited, Sue said.

"We're going to stick with jewellery"

"People are very shy about what they want to spend," Sue said. The shyness becomes most prevalent when they are talking about gold, she adds.

But both Sue and Mike agree that the price of a ring need not command quality of the design. Many rings that appear to be exactly the same, until carefully examined, can be extremely different in price just because of the weight of the gold which has been used in the composition; the band may be thicker but the actual design is not jewellery through their former store in New Hamburg and attending a few craft shows, as well as selling from their studio.

When the new year begins, they plan to approach a few more stores but don't want to become strictly wholesalers, and as a result lose their custom work which allows them to be more individualistic without the pressures of appealing to a large consumer body which wholesaling demands.

However, they are in the jewellery making business and although some of their other crafts such as Sue's weaving and spinning are important to them, jewellery seems to tap most of their creative abilities.

"We're going to stick with jewellery," Sue said.

Along the Trails

by Roy Bates

It seems that some members of the Chamber of Commerce were upset by a local snowmobile club's suggestion that the Chamber might become more active than it is in the promotion of winter. It is true that those businesses actively soliciting snowmobile patronage constitute a small minority of the Chamber's membership, and I can see where there would be a problem justifying advertising for so few, but I do feel there is a point being missed here. It is claimed, and I believe it, that each tourist dollar brought in to the area will pass through an average of six hands before it leaves again or settles to rest in somebody's pocket. And that is a benefit to the entire community, not to the innkeeper alone. The annual revenue from snowmobilers in this county is now counted in millions of dollars!

One might wonder why a snowmobile club would place so much importance on promotion when increased traffic can only mean to the club another entry in red ink. Trail maintenance costs escalate out of all proportion to revenues from new memberships. Since the motivation can't be profit, then it must be dedication to the cause of community betterment. The snowmobile club is, in every sense of the word, a service club.

Service to the community, in the form of trails improvement and promotion of the county for winter tourism, was written into the constitution of the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association as one of its main objectives. It was actually intended by the club's founders that it would serve, at least temporarily, as a wintertime Chamber of Commerce. Over the years, a great deal of energy has been channelled towards the fulfillment of that promise. And the effort continues, unabated.

It has come to my attention that the club is currently looking into the possibility of purchasing television time for 30-second spot commercials. It seems to me this is one area where the club and the Chamber should be pulling together. Attractions of both winter and summer can be sandwiched onto a single tape which may be used at any season of the year. Other tourist regions are using the format and finding it effective. So let's stop playing tug-of-war. It's time to get down to serious productive co-operation.

From the Southeast Corner
One of the smoothest snowmobile trails I have ever ridden, in Haliburton County or elsewhere, is the Paudash Trail Blazers' north trail from Eels Lake to Harcourt. This is the central portion of the club's link between the Apsley area and the Peterson Trail. When I saw it last February it was groomed to perfection.

The club maintains approximately 130 miles of snowmobile trails and the system is constantly being improved and extended. For example, bulldozing was employed on several troublesome sectors this fall to make for easier grooming. Access to the trails from such communities as Wilberforce and Bancroft was also improved.

Grooming is done with Alpine; and the club is convinced that it has no need for heavier more expensive machines. The condition of its trails would seem to bear this out. One new Alpine will go into service this year replacing the club's oldest machine which was purchased from the H.C.S.A. when that club moved up to the Bombi.

An up-dated (1981) version of the club's trail map will be available shortly. Why not set your compass to a southeasterly heading and enjoy the hospitality of the Paudash Trail Blazers?

Stanhope council holds regular November meeting

At the November meeting of Stanhope council, the following matters were considered:

The clerk was authorized to issue the 1980 council member's remuneration in accordance with the 1980 budget estimates and more specifically as follows: reeve $2,800; deputy reeve $2,450; councillors $2,000. In addition and also in accordance with a motion passed December 5, 1979 each member of council will receive $600 expense allowance.

The Land Use Permit for part Lot 1, Concession 12, Hindon Township (Pine Springs Dump) will be renewed with the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Council authorized a $10,000 donation to the Ontario Humane Society to financially aid in the continuing research of a "Small Animal Fertility Control Project".

Council agreed to donate $25,000 to the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association to financially aid in the "Track Drive" which has an objective of $3,000 in 1980.

Council approved a preliminary plan of survey prepared by H. Curry Bishop, O.L.S., dated October 29, 1980 describing Block A, Plan 372. Council suggested that if the survey is approved by abutting property owners that appropriate deeds be prepared transferring parts 1 and 2 to the interested parties.

Council approved in principle of a preliminary plan of survey of part Lot 10, Concession 1, Stanhope Township by Paul Wilson, O.L.S., prepared for Robert Moore and consisting of seven parts within the reference plan. Council noted it is prepared to commence processing the necessary road closing by-law for parts 1, 2, and 3 on the plan. However, until a successful road closing by-law is completed for parts 6 and 7 council is not in a position to make comment on the possibility of proposed severances.

Council requested the Minister of Revenue to implement the final phase of equalization of assessment under provisions of Section 86 of The Assessment Act for the Township of Stanhope. Elgin Stouffer voted nay.

The deputy returning officers and poll clerks for the 1980 election will be paid $67.50 and $60.00 respectively for their services. Elgin Stouffer voted nay.

Council approved of Land Division Committee severance application numbers H 293/80 and H 295/80 conditional upon the required minimum frontages being in accordance with By-law 77-15 for the township and also the Land Division Committee policies.

Mrs. Betty Davis will be paid $650 in accordance with a 1980 agreement for Janitorial Services at the municipal office.

Council acknowledged receipt of the fire chief's report dated November 12, 1980.

Council authorized a donation of $150 for one to 12 months' service and $75 for one to six months' service to be made to each fireman in accordance with a list submitted by the fire chief. This donation was given as a token of council's appreciation to each member for his contribution to this service.

Council acknowledged receipt of minutes of an airport committee meeting held November 3, 1980.

Council acknowledged receipt of minutes of a recreation meeting held October 22, 1980.

Council will petition the Ministry of Transportation and Communications for subsidy on expenditures totalling $216,878.86 to October 31, 1980.

NOTICE IS HEREBY given pursuant to Section 1, Sub-section 2, of The Expropriations Act of the following:

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR APPROVAL TO EXPROPRIATE LAND

IN THE MATTER of an application by the Minister of Transportation and Communications for approval to expropriate lands being: In the Townships of Minden and Dysart, in the Provisional County of Haliburton, in the Province of Ontario, for the purpose of widening and reconstructing King's Highway 121, and works related thereto.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that application has been made for approval to expropriate the land described in the schedule hereto.

Any owner of lands in respect of which notice is given who desires an inquiry into whether the taking of such land is fair, sound and reasonably necessary in the achievement of the objectives of the expropriating authority shall so notify the approving authority in writing,

(a) in the case of a registered owner, served personally or by registered mail within thirty days after he is served with the notice, or, when he is served by publication, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice;

(b) in the case of an owner who is not a registered owner, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice.

THE APPROVING AUTHORITY IS

Minister of Transportation and Communications
G.F. Wetherall
Regional Director
P.O. Box 3030
North Bay, Ontario
P1B 8L2

NOTES:

1. The Expropriations Act provides that,

(a) where an inquiry is requested, it shall be conducted by an inquiry officer appointed by the Minister of Justice and Attorney General;

(b) the inquiry officer,

(i) shall give every party to the inquiry an opportunity to present evidence and argument and to examine and cross-examine witnesses, either personally or by his counsel or agent, and

(ii) may recommend to the approving authority that a party to the inquiry be paid a fixed amount for his costs of the inquiry not to exceed $200 and the approving authority may in its discretion order the expropriating authority to pay such costs forthwith.

2. "owner" and "registered owner" are defined in the Act as follows:

"owner" includes mortgagee, tenant, execution creditor, a person entitled to a limited estate or interest in land, a committee of the estate of a mentally incompetent person or of a person incapable of managing his affairs, and a guardian, executor, administrator or trustee in whom land is vested;

"registered owner" means an owner of land whose interest in the land is defined and whose name is specified in an instrument in the proper Land Registry or Sheriff's office, and includes a person shown as a tenant of land on the last revised assessment roll;

3. The expropriating authority, each owner who notifies the approving authority that he desires a hearing in respect of the lands intended to be expropriated and any owner added as a party by the inquiry officer are parties to the inquiry.

Tory Hill News

by Gloria Billings

Our municipal elections have come and gone. I would like to congratulate those of you who were elected to your different offices. I'm sure you have worked hard and have our best interests at heart. Arnold and Shirley Stamp have had their family visiting periodically. Shirley's sister Grace of Toronto also visited a few days.

Orval and Dennis Foster and Ken and Freda Evans attended Orval's sister's wedding awhile back in Nova Scotia.

Jack and Aileen Riddell spent Saturday with Leslie and Gladys Haas. Grandpa and Grandma Billings are pleased you are home from hospital and much better Amanda.

We have been away to St. Catharines and Buffalo, N.Y. for a few holidays. Our hearts were saddened to read of the tragic accident and loss of four local young people and the couple from Peterborough. Our community sends their sympathy to the families involved. Arnold and Shirley Stamp attended the funeral of Shirley's aunt Mary in Toronto recently. Our condolences are with the family.

It's good to hear Marlene Watson is on the mend after recent surgery. Get well soon from your Tory Hill friends, Marlene.

How nice to hear the occasional Christmas song on radio. It's a time to be happy, and a time to be busy with the hustle and bustle of shopping and baking and wrapping gifts, but don't overlook the meaning of Christmas, Christ's birthday. We just heard the sad news of the sudden passing of the late Wm. Hunter of Gooderham. Our deepest sympathy is extended to the family in their time of sorrow.

We are disappointed to hear that Sprucewood at Wilberforce is closed. Most everything has been a success in the village but as George told me, here's one that closed for lack of support.

It is interesting to note that some councillors for centennial year of Monmouth township at the inaugural meeting carry old Tory Hill names. For example, Barry Dunford, great grandson of Richard Dunford, and Carmen Coumbs, grandson of George Coumbs. Ross Anderson, Monmouth school trustee, is grandson of John Anderson. We are all looking forward to the publication of our centennial book and the various activities planned. This would have made a nice Christmas gift. Take care and have a good day!

Get a good thing going. Yourself.  PARTICIPATION
